MAN IS MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY?

SIX MEN AND BIG BALLOON MISSING

MYSTERY OVER MAN'S DEATH IN BOXCAR

Now Believed to Have Been Slain for His Gold; Inquiry to be Made

KNOWN TO HAVE HAD ABOUT $200 WITH HIM

Relatives in East Are Positive That He Has Met Foul Play

Was Cyrus Foster, the Massachusetts grain merchant, whose dead body was found in an empty box car nearly a fortnight ago at Melrose station, the victim of murderous thieves who slew their victim after robbing him of his gold?

Belief in this theory has been steadily growing in the neighborhood where the fatality occurred, despite the fact that the coroner's jury which investigated Foster's fate returned a verdict of death from pneumonia. This morning a dispatch was received from the relatives of the dead man, whose home was in Springfield, Mass., announcing that they were not satisfied with the finding of the coroner's jury and asking that a further and extremely thorough investigation of the case be made.

Foster, who was 73 years of age, is known to have had $200 in his possession on the day prior to his death. When his body was found in the boxcar there was not a cent in his pockets. Where did this money go, query his relatives, and why should he have been in a boxcar? There seems to be no plausible answer to these questions save that the aged man was a victim of foul play.

Identifies His Body

Foster left his home in Springfield in January to visit relatives in Santa Barbara. He departed from the latter place on March 15 and started for Oakland, where he expected to spend some time with his niece, Mrs. George B. Ferguson, of 141 Hillside avenue, Piedmont. When he failed to arrive at the expected time his niece began to make anxious inquiries, and it was through her efforts that the identity of the body found at Melrose was established. No one knows how the old man reached this station, so far out of his way to his sister's home. As far as can be learned he was not seen loitering about the railroad yards there, and it is not known how he got into the car.

His body was found on March 11 by two small boys, who were playing in the yards. They reported their discovery to the authorities, and the body was taken to the Fruitvale morgue, where an inquest was held several days later. The evidence introduced failed to show that a crime had been committed, although there were traces of strychnine on the floor of the car near where the body lay; and, acting upon the advice of physicians, who had made a hasty examination of the body, the jury returned a verdict of death from pneumonia. There was no attempt made to explain how the man got into the car, except the conjecture that he might have been stricken suddenly while he was walking toward the station and had crawled into the car of his own volition.

New Investigation

The significant fact that he was penniless was not taken into account by the jury, as the identity of the body had not been established and nothing was known of Foster's circumstances or past history. It is probable that the investigation will be reopened by the coroner, and the dead man's relatives may employ special detectives to attempt to solve the mystery of his end.

SPRINGFIELD, March 22.—The wife and brothers of Cyrus Foster of this city, whose body was found in a box car in California a week ago, are not

BLACK, DEFIANT, SENDS ANSWER TO PORTER

"I Won't Be Seen," Declares Senator in Message to Lieutenant-Governor

NO ACTION TAKEN ON DIRECT PRIMARY BILL

Sergeant-at-Arms Martin Wires That His Mission Is Failure

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS FAILS TO GET PEEP AT SENATOR BLACK

PALO ALTO, March 22.—No change in the condition of State Senator Black is reported this morning. Sergeant-at-Arms Martin is still here, but has not seen the Senator today. He will attempt to have a medical examination of the sick Senator made by physicians other than those who have certified that he is too ill to go to Sacramento, where his vote on the direct primary bill is desired.

SACRAMENTO, March 22.—This afternoon the Senate reconsidered the vote on the direct primary. Senator Wright moved to concur in the Assembly amendments. A vote was taken and before the result was declared Senator Wolfe of San Francisco moved for a call of the Senate. It was shown that there were three absentees, Black, Anthony and Cartwright. The unannounced vote stood 20 for concurrence and 17 against it. The call of the House is still in progress. It is expected that both Anthony and Cartwright will be produced before long and that concurrence will not succeed and as a consequence will be sent back to the Assembly.

Refuses to Concur

The Senate this afternoon at 3 o'clock refused to concur in the Assembly amendments to the direct primary bill.

The vote was 20 in favor of concurrence and 18 against.

Twenty-one votes were necessary to carry the motion. The same disposition was made of the other minor amendments of the lower house to the bill in question.

The primary bill will not be sent to the Assembly and it is doubtful if the lower house will recede from its amendment.

SACRAMENTO, March 22.—There was no session of the Senate this morning for the reason that the proponents of the Assembly amendments to the Senate direct primary bill sought to effect a compromise on the subject with the opponents of the measure.

The morning was passed by the friends of the measure in preparing the compromise and the opponents in discussing the proposed compromise.

The amendments, as they stand at the present time, make the vote of the people for United States senator, by Assembly district, advisory to assemblymen and State senators.

Proposed Compromised

The compromise offered by the friends of the Wright bill was to have a plurality of districts in favor of a certain candidate determine who should be United States Senator from this State.

The proposition, however, was rejected, the antagonists of the bill declaring they would have the bill just as it left the Senate or nothing at all.

At 1 o'clock the Senate took a recess until 2 o'clock, no reference having been made to the conference as above detailed.

AGAIN RECEIVES LETTER FROM KIDNAPERS

Expect to Have Stolen Boy Home Within the Next 48 Hours

ABDUCTORS DEMAND RANSOM OF GOLD

Nature of Note From Criminals is Kept Secret by Whitla

SHARON, Pa., March 22.—Reports from Ohio that the Whitla boy has been recovered are without foundation, according to the family here.

Conflicting statements issued by detectives and Whitla this afternoon have greatly confused newspaper men at work on the case. According to the detectives a fourth letter postmarked Cleveland has been received from the abductors and their capture, they allege, is only a matter of a few hours. Although this statement was made following a conference with Whitla, the missing lad's father, the next instant he told the newspaper men that he had discharged all the detectives and in the future did not desire or want the services of the police.

In his statement Whitla says there is absolutely no new developments in the case.

SHARON, Pa., March 22.—Word was received shortly before 11 o'clock that the Whitla family have assurances that Willie Whitla will be returned within forty-eight hours. It is said another letter has been received directing in what manner the money shall be paid. All details of the negotiations are being carefully guarded.

W. F. Buhl, millionaire uncle of the boy and several detectives attended the conference this morning in Whitla's office. Whitla admits that the abductors in their letter, had instructed him to have the money in the denominations of fives, tens and twenties.

Whitla Near Collapse

Whitla is near collapse now. His wife is bearing up well, but it is believed that another disappointment will cause serious consequences. Detective Perkins of Pittsburg, in a statement to the Associated Press at 11.10 a. m. said:

"A fourth letter has been received from the abductors. I cannot give you the contents at this time, but will say that, give us a little time, and we will walk the kidnapers into Whitla's office."

It is believed that the boy will be safe in his parents' home by nightfall.

George Arper Jailed For Not Testifying

George W. Arper was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Burt Brown today on a bench warrant from San Jose. Arper was said to be a defaulting witness, having been served on March 1 with a summons to appear at San Jose today in the trial of a case in the Superior Court there. The case was badly involved and hinged on the organization of a company. Its title was E. W. Burke versus George W. Arper.

Arper was held in $200 and was in extended conference with his counsel, R. E. Hewitt.

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 22.—Arper was arrested by virtue of a warrant from Justice Wallace's court here for contempt, in having neglected to appear before Roland Fitts, referee, in Oakland, as ordered by Justice Wallace, to testify concerning matters in a suit brought against him by E. W. Burke to collect alleged debts contracted by him for the San Jose Oil and Burner Company, of which he was the organizer.

Anarchists Open War on Assessor

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—San Francisco anarchists have collided with the county assessor, and are gathering their forces for a concerted legal attack upon the organized forces of society.

The war opens when Alexander Horr, erstwhile manager of Emma Goldman's meetings, refused to render any account of his taxable property, and defied the authorities to compel it.

According to section 429 of the penal code this act of defiance constitutes a misdemeanor, and renders the guilty party liable to a fine of $500 or six months in prison, or both.

Approves County Government Act

SACRAMENTO, March 22.—Governor Gillett has signed the county government act for Alameda County.

D. M. FENNON COMMITS SUICIDE

Takes Chloroform and Ether and Turns on Two Gas Jets

WIFE WAS ABSENT WHEN DEATH OCCURRED

Neighbor Goes to Feed House-Pet and Discovers Dead Body

The body of D. M. Fennon, who had committed suicide at his residence, 859 Fifty-fifth street, by taking ether and chloroform and opening two gas cocks, was found early this morning. The deed is supposed to have been committed four days ago.

Fennon was a well-known resident and citizen of this city. He was employed as an outside inspector by the Peoples' Water company.

Mrs. Fennon left last week for a vacation visit with friends at Oakdale. Neighbors say that the couple have not been happy together for some time. The police believe domestic unhappiness caused the suicide.

Bird Also Killed

Mrs. Viola Crest, who resides a few doors from the Fennon home, discovered the dead body at about 8 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Crest had been requested by Mrs. Fennon to feed and attend to a canary bird Mrs. Fennon owns, and Mrs. Crest was on her way to feed the bird when she found Fennon's body. The bird was caged in the same room as Fennon and was dead. It had been asphixiated.

It is learned that Mrs. Fennon left with Mrs. W. F. Helder, wife of Dr. Helder. Mrs. Fennon and Mrs. Helder are relatives.

Dr. Helder this morning told representatives of THE TRIBUNE that he doubted that Fennon had committed suicide. He said that personal investigation had made him confident that the unfortunate man's death was the result of an accident.

"From my observation," said Dr. Helder, "I feel sure that Fennon did not commit suicide. In the first place it is preposterous to so think. He was of too sunny disposition and I scout the suicide theory.

"It is evident that Fennon arose intending to have a bath. He turned on the gas and lit it. The wind coming through the window probably extinguished the light and the gas escaped. He may then have laid on the bed and fallen in a light sleep."

Dead Four Days

Mrs. Crest, who summoned Dr. Wolcott when she found Fennon's body, said today:

"Dr. Wolcott stated that he believed Fennon had been dead four days at least. The house where the Fennons live is up for sale and I have had the keys since Mrs. Fennon left three weeks ago. Noticing old papers and an accumulation of milk bottles on the back porch this morning I entered by the front way.

"An overpowering odor of gas met me at the door and on entering I found Mr. Fennon lying on the bed."

Boat Burns While Tied Up in Yards

STOCKTON, March 22.—The steamer "Lender" of the California Navigation and Improvement Company was burned to the water's edge at an early hour this morning while tied up at the Grant Ship Yards. Other steamers nearby were saved by the fire department. The steamer, which is almost a total loss, was valued at about $25,000, which is said to be nearly covered by insurance.

The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Bringing Arrested Banker From East

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The requisition of Governor Gillett of California for the return of Harry S. Brown formerly president of the Bank of Calistoga, arrested here a week ago, was honored today, and Sheriff [illegible] of Napa county left for the West with his prisoner. Bail has been arranged for and Brown will be released on his arrival. He is wanted to answer an indictment for alleged embezzlement.

Died '08, Buried Now So Wife Can Attend

SAN DIEGO, March 22.—After a delay of three months the remains of Henry Jefferson Cuter, a former Santa Fe railroad engineer, were laid to rest yesterday afternoon in a blinding rain storm. The funeral of Cuter, who died early in December, was delayed in order that his widow, who was dangerously ill when her husband died, might recover and attend the obsequies.

PRETTY GIRL IS ARRESTED FOR FORGERY

Miss Cora Rice Said to Have Secured Big Sums Through Fraud

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS INVOLVED, IS CHARGE

Young Business Woman Accused by Many, Say City Authorities

Charged with forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses, Miss Cora B. Rice, a pretty young business woman of Oakland, was arrested this morning. According to the complaint filed against Miss Rice, she has forged the names of several men to false notes, and has obtained upward of $3000 by this method.

Miss Rice was arrested upon the complaint of R. W. Lovelace, who is a Southern Pacific fireman. The woman forged Lovelace's name to a note on the Oakland Bank of Savings for $180, he charges. Upon this complaint she was arrested.

Other Accusations

Several other reports had been received by Captain Petersen this morning. One of them was from George K. King, of the M. T. Minney Real Estate Company. According to King, Miss Rice forged his name to a note for a thousand dollars. Upon threats of King Miss Rice refunded the money. King says that he was compelled to threaten to charge her with forgery before the woman turned over the money to him.

Employed as Clerk

Miss Rice is employed as a clerk by the A. E. Horton Eastern Commercial Company. The offices of the company are located in the Bacon Block.

Several other reports have been made to Captain Petersen of the alleged crooked work of Miss Rice, but he refuses as yet to make them public until they have been confirmed.

Miss Rice is a resident of this city, and is 27 years of age. She is of striking appearance and a good business woman.

Curry, Indignant, Quits Governorship

SANTA FE, N. M., March 22.—Governor George Curry this morning telegraphed to President Taft his resignation as Governor of New Mexico.

Governor Curry stated this morning that although he had contemplated taking this action for several months past, the immediate cause of his resignation was that he had requested a leave of absence to go to Washington to talk with President Taft and the Secretary of the Interior on matters of great importance to New Mexico, not appertaining to statehood, but that Secretary of the Interior Ballinger had answered that he should take up the business by letter.

Tower Falls as Owner Is Buried

SAN DIEGO, March 22.—Just at the moment that the body of Henry Timken, the millionaire carriage manufacturer of Ohio and St. Louis, was being lowered into the grave at a local cemetery yesterday, a 180-foot tower on the eight-story block under construction for Mr. Timpken crashed to the ground, injuring two persons slightly. The funeral of Mr. Timken, who died in Los Angeles, was held in a driving rainstorm.

Mrs. Cochrane Is Not Prosecuted

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—The case of Mrs. Elizabeth Cochrane, charged with assault to murder, was dismissed by Police Judge Conlan this morning. Mrs. Cochrane's victim, Mrs. L. K. Emery, who was shot by the former when discovered with Mrs. Cochrane's husband, has refused to prosecute.

Bankers and Public Officials Indicted

PITTSBURG, March 22.—As the result of the grand jury investigation last week of municipal corruption the court today ordered indictments against the following men:

Dallas C. Byers, millionaire manufacturer; G. A. Griffin, cashier Columbia National Bank; Councilman John F. Klein, W. H. Weber, Charles Stewart and H. A. Bolger, hotel proprietor.

Prominent Young Official is Suddenly Stricken With Pneumonia

LITTLE HOPE IS GIVEN OUT FOR RECOVERY

Was Taken Ill Wednesday; Has Been Growing Worse Ever Since

City Attorney John E. McElroy is not expected to live. He is a victim of pneumonia and is lying dangerously ill at his home. His family and friends are very much alarmed over his condition today. While there is a chance for his recovery, his physician, Dr. J. L. Milton, is not holding out any great hope.

Mr. McElroy was taken ill last Wednesday and has gradually grown worse, until now he is in a desperate state. The city attorney has a wife and a minor son.

Dr. Milton said: "Mr. McElroy is desperately ill. I have hopes of his recovery."

Women Participate In Strike Attack

ORANGE, N. J., March 22.—Women among an angry crowd of 200 persons played a part today in an attack upon a party of a dozen men arriving at the railroad station here to go to work at the hat factory of F. B[illegible] & Co., where a strike is in progress.

A force of twenty-five police was obliged to charge the mob, in which were a number of demonstrative women. Stones were thrown and a patrolman injured slightly. The mob was driven back amid shrieks of the women and some resistance from the men. Three arrests of foreigners were made.

Pia Confesses to Attack on Girl

SAN RAFAEL, March 22.—Guiseppe Pia, the Italian who was found guilty of attacking Miss Elizabeth [illegible]ary Grapes on the night of February 6, 1909, confessed his guilt to Sheriff Taylor this afternoon shortly after 2:30 o'clock.

L'Italia, the Italian paper [illegible] in San Francisco issued on every [illegible]nday, has in item in it to the effect that the trial was not on the square, the headlines being "An Italian Victim of [illegible]ce-Prejudice—Our countryman Guipeso Pia, convicted through the hostile 'ambient' created around him by the sheriff and district attorney of San Rafael."

Sheriff Taylor contemplates bringing suit against this paper for 50,000.

FIND NO CLEWS TO MEN LOST IN CLOUDS

Aeronaut and Five Passengers Are Believed to Have Now Perished

POSSES ARE SEARCHING THROUGH MOUNTAINS

Storm Raging in Southern Part of State; Trails Are Obliterated

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—Up to noon today no word whatever had come from the big Ferris racing balloon "America" which ascended from Tournament Park in Pasadena at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon with Captain A. E. Mueller and five other men in the basket, and there is strong probability that the men have perished in the mountains in the midst of the terrible blizzard that has been raging since early Sunday morning.

The last trace of the balloon was when it disappeared through the clouds in Grand Canon on the slope of Mount Lowe, where it was observed from Alpine Tavern near the summit. The big bag containing 76,000 cubic feet of gas was being driven then by a strong north wind towards the peaks of the range.

One of the worst storms in years is raging in the mountains. Four feet of snow has fallen on Mt. Wilson and nearly two feet at Mt. Lowe, and is still falling heavily today. All day yesterday a terrific blizzard raged, the wind attaining a high velocity.

Search Being Made

The weather is cold, the thermometer registering 32 above on Mt. Wilson this morning. The whole sides of the mountains are covered with many feet of snow. Trails are obliterated. It would be impossible for the men to make their way any distance in the present snowstorm.

Two searching parties were organized early today in Pasadena and will go into the mountains at once. Every point in the mountains that could be reached has been communicated with, but no trace of the balloon has been found. It is barely possible that the wind may have shifted and carried the men away to some remote locality, where they have been unable to get into communication with the city, but this is thought unlikely.

Those in Party

There is also a possibility that the men may have landed in the mountains near some habitation, which they reached in safety, and have since been unable to make their way out to communicate with the city.

Besides Captain A. E. Mueller, the pilot, the party included: Lane C. Gilliam, a prominent mining man, formerly of Walla Walla, Wash., now of Hotel Maryland, Pasadena; Richard Halstead, president and manager of the R. C. Halstead Company, fish, poultry and oyster market, Pasadena; Sydney Cray, pigeon fancier, Piedmont Drive, North Fair Oaks, Pasadena; Harold Parker, photographer, 572 East Colorado street, Pasadena; F. C. Dodschutz, chauffeur, employed at Braley's garage, Pasadena.

Captain Mueller is the only experienced aeronaut in the party, but he has passed through so many perils that confidence is felt that he will bring the men with him back safely. Mueller is a noted racing aeronaut. In July last year he participated in the international race at Chicago wherein his balloon descended in Lake Michigan and was dragged for miles across the lake, narrowly escaping with his life. Later in October he made an ascension from Columbus, O., and landed in Niagara canyon, where he was dragged over a rough country for some distance, sustaining broken ribs and other injuries.

A couple of months ago he ascended

ANOTHER PANEL EXHAUSTED IN THE CALHOUN TRIAL

More Talesmen to Be Summoned---Members of Jury Pass a Quiet Sunday in Hotel.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—With all the jurors, both temporarily and permanently passed, in their accustomed seats in the box, and with the full complement of counsel on each side on hand, the trial of Patrick Calhoun was resumed at 9:50 a. m. today. The sworn jurors welcomed the trip to the court after yesterday's long, dreary sojourn at the St. Francis, deprived of their airing in the park by reason of the rain. The only amusement vouchsafed to them since the last adjournment of the proceedings was a theater trip Saturday night. All seemed in excellent health, Robert Symington having seemingly recovered from his indisposition of last week.

Henry M. Block, a clothier of 110[illegible] Gough street, who bid fair to qualify under the preliminary questioning of Attorney Stanley Moore on Friday, admitted to a prejudice in favor of Calhoun, amounting almost to a bias, when interrogated this morning and was excused under a challenge interposed by the prosecution.

Contractor's Opinion

He was followed by Henry Bornholdt, contractor of 1530 Broderick street, who stated immediately that he had no leaning, inclination or bias regarding the case, and believed he could give the defendant a fair and just trial. His mind was apparently clear and open to conviction on all the vital matters connected with the charge at issue, and he had no positive ideas on the score of the car strike of 1907.

When sounded as to his opinion of circumstantial evidence he averred that it would have to be very strong in order to convict, but stated that he would obey the instruction of the court in that relation. Finally, the subject of the immunity deal for the supervisors having been touched upon, it developed that the talesman might have read the confessions of the boodle board and had the feeling based on those revelations that "Mr. Calhoun ought to have known something about the bribery being on of the higher officers of the company."

Excused by Court

Attorney Moore then began to seek grounds for a challenge and commenced to query with that end in view. Judge Lawlor, however, saved him the trouble by coming to the rescue with the declaration that he thought the challenge ought to be allowed.

Heney rather liked the prospective juror's appearance and seemed to desire to pursue the inquiry further. The court was firm, however, and Bornholdt was released, together with William [illegible] Bishop, a stair builder, who had a firm conviction in the case.

Richard O. Bliss of 617 Steiner street, a cattle dealer whose business interests lie largely in Nevada, was thereupon called. He was a schoolmate of Assistant District Attorney O'Gara and a brother-in-law of Judge Jeremiah Sullivan, but had not discussed the charge in hand with either of them. He entertained a positive belief that the ex-supervisors had received money from the United Railroads and was challenged by Moore and dismissed, after which Frederick W. Bradley, the millionaire mining engineer, of 2661 Broadway, was questioned.

At Ford Trial

He had been summoned in one of the Ford trials, though not examined in the box. He confessed to membership in the League of Justice, the Good Government League and the Lincoln Roosevelt League, and all of them [illegible] opinion which [illegible] could not be removed. He [illegible] discharged as was also Joseph [illegible] Cunningham, manager of Shreve & Company, residing at 2700 Pierce street, for the same reason.

Credit Man Called

Edward J. Dollard of 2727 California street, who was next summoned, gave his occupation as that of credit man for O'Connor, Moffitt & Company.

"I have a fixed opinion," maintained the talesman after the first routine question had been propounded.

"Are you sure you know what a fixed opinion means?" asked the defendant's counsel.

"In the credit business all our opinions are fixed. We have to be firm," was the interesting response.

"So you judge your opinion on the basis of your business, do you?" inquired the attorney, and Dollard was permitted to go and gave place to Harry F. Blackwood of 2001 Pacific avenue, a note teller for the Savings & Loan Society.

Is Soon Excused

His tendencies in the matter were such that he knew he couldn't be fair to both sides, and he was quickly excused together with John R. Billington of 4[illegible] Eleventh avenue, a former conductor for the old Market street railroad company, and Leo Block of 570 Washington street, a tinner of West Berkeley, because of decided opinion.

Next on the list was James Bocarde, a drayman. He had heard frequent expressions of opinion on the subject of the case by persons whom he believed knew little or nothing more about it than he did himself.

"Have you ever served as a juror before?" asked Moore.

"Technically yes, practically no," was the peculiar reply.

"What do you mean by that?"

"Well, I've sat in cases, but never rendered a verdict."

"You've been called in civil suits where the matter was compromised, have you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have you an opinion on this case?"

"Yes, sir."

Released by Consent

Bocarde added that he could not possibly banish his ideas on the subject of the guilt or innocence of the defendant and was released.

Judge Lawlor here took up the personal examination of Maurice Glimpel of 2351 Market street, an aged man who had been subpoenaed to appear at 3:30 this afternoon. The old gentleman didn't hear very well and the court was unable to make him understand at first.

"You should not have come until 3:30 p. m.," explained his honor.

"Oh, I am early then," said the venireman.

"Yes."

"I'm very sorry."

"Never mind, that's a good fault," emphasized the jurist, and he dismissed him because of the condition of his health.

Panel Exhausted

The twenty-third panel having now been exhausted, the twenty-fourth was taken in hand and John H. Eagal, an automobile dealer of 1227 Twelfth avenue, was queried. He knew William J. Burns and District Attorney Langdon, and counsel found out that the acquaintance was largely a business one. It developed that Spreckels had purchased a machine which Burns had been in the habit of driving, and the detective was accustomed to having it repaired at Eagal's garage. He stated that he had a well-grounded opinion which he hinted was favorable to Calhoun, and he was discharged.

James H. Fannin, a wholesale hatter, who claimed to feel favorable to the defendant, was quickly excused because of his ideas, and Lyman D. Foster of 1334 Masonic avenue, a wholesale grocer, was questioned. He proved to be acquainted with Supervisors Sanderson and Boxton as well as Abraham Ruef. He was dismissed on account of an opinion.

Sickness at Home

The fifteenth man summoned was John Faubel, an artificial stone dealer, who told Moore that he was convinced of his inability to be a fair juror. Before a challenge had been interposed he admitted to O'Gara that he was largely influenced in his declarations by the fact that he had a great deal of sickness at home and was expecting his sister to die almost immediately. He was discharged.

Many Excused

W. P. Plimer, an electrotyper, and Charles J. Larenkopf, an architectural iron worker, had decided leanings in the case and [illegible] next [illegible] after which Herman [illegible] was interrogated. He professed an acquaintance with the whole Spreckels family and believed bribery had been committed. He was challenged and excused together with John Fahey, a grocer, and Charles Fitzsimmons, cashier for W. J. Sloane & Co.

Audrey Foreman, a retired type foundry owner living at 351 Second avenue, was convinced from newspaper reading that the ex-supervisors had gone before the grand jury and that they had received bribes, but had not taken a very much interest in the so-called graft prosecution.

When shown the questions and answers of the revelations of the boodle board the talesman said he did not take any stock in it and thought it was all paper talk. Foreman then took a slap at the newspaper in his explanation of the above statement.

"Like a Novel"

"I've been in newspaper offices when they've been making up the papers. I've heard the reporters who were taking items say, 'Hold on, don't put that in, here's a better one.' That's the way they get them up, like a novel."

"Have you read of the trial of Supervisor Michael W. Coffey?" inquired Attorney Rogers.

"Yes, sir."

"Do you remember the result of that trial?"

"He was convicted."

"Do you know on what charge?"

"Perjury, wasn't it?"

"Perjury on what matter?"

"He swore that he got the money and then denied that he got it."

The prospective juror asserted that he had no idea at all regarding this case and had never discussed it in any way.

In the midst of the questioning a recess was taken until 2 p. m.

Beauty Doctor Spoiled Beauty, She Claims

Miss N. Callaghan, residing at 7[illegible] Eighth street, Oakland, who brought suit in San Francisco Saturday for $17,000 damages from Mrs. J. Barrett Wilson, a dermatologist, makes serious charges against the woman and her husband, "John Doe" Wilson, stating in her complaint that "ignorance, carelessness and lack of skill" were shown in their treating her for "hirsuties."

Miss Callaghan, who is a pretty young milliner, alleges that the beauty doctor has permanently disfigured her face and marred her features, and declares that this fact, together with the sickness and worry she endured for weeks in consequence, the cost is worth $17,000.

Miss Callaghan asserts that she went to the beauty doctor on June 21 last to have superfluous hair removed from her upper lip by means of the electric needle. A small sore appeared on her lip a few days after, according to her allegations, which rapidly became worse and caused her to consult a physician, who, she asserts, told her that her lip had been poisoned through the carelessness of the operator. There is a scar on the young woman's lip at present which she claims is the result of her experience. She declares that Wilson, the beauty doctor's husband, assured her that his wife was a skilled surgeon and that it was at his solicitation that she put herself in Mrs. Wilson's care.

Bick McMahan Sues J. W. Marshall For Money Deposited On Aerolite

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Two race horses which have been running at the Emeryville track, Aerolite and Monte Wilkes, came into prominence today as the result of a suit for $600 brought by Bick McMahan against J. W. Marshall, both well known on the turf.

McMahan claims that he contracted to buy the two horses for $[illegible] on February 17, paying $600 deposit for their delivery. On the day following, when he went to complete the purchase, he asserts Aerolite had been injured in such a way as to render her permanently disabled. At that time he says he demanded the return of his deposit, but was refused, and asks the aid of the court in getting his money.

OCTOGENARIAN SINGER THOUGHT TO BE INSANE

George Dimock, 81 years of age and a professional church singer, whose musical career began in England, was arrested by the police today and is detained at the receiving hospital on suspicion of insanity.

Dimock claimed that he was not insane. He said that he was making his way from England to San Francisco and was sorry he ever got so far away from home. For thirty-five years he was a professional singer in Salt Lake City, where vocal music is held in high esteem. No charge was placed against Dimock, and he will probably be released.

HOME TRADE FOR COUNTY SUPPLIES

Supervisors at Request of Oakland Associations Pass Such a Resolution Today

The Board of Supervisors met in regular weekly session this morning. Chairman Horner presided and Supervisors Foss, Talcott, Kelly and Mullins were present.

In a communication from the Merchants' Exchange the attention of the board was called to a resolution recently adopted by that body with a view to keeping county patronage in the matter of purchasing supplies at home. The resolution was as follows:

"Whereas, The revenue of the county of Alameda is derived from taxes and license paid by residents and property owners of said county; therefore,

"Resolved, By the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland, that we request the Board of Supervisors to make all purchases of supplies and mechanical work as far as possible from merchants and manufacturers of Alameda county."

As To Printing

In connection with this a resolution was introduced by the Franklin Association petitioning that all printing, lithographing, photo-engraving, bookbinding, etc., ordered by or for the county of Alameda and its officials be awarded to those only located in the county, and that all such work bear the label of the Allied Printing Trades Council having jurisdiction in the county, and that it show the imprint of the persons, firms or corporations doing the work. It was also provided that all county officials be requested to order their official printing in accordance with the above conditions.

Supervisor Kelly moved the adoption of the resolution, which was seconded by Supervisor Talcott, and the motion was unanimously carried.

The opinion of the District Attorney's office in the matter of printing awards was to the effect that the board has the right to request county officers to patronize home concerns.

PAYNE OPENED TARIFF FIGHT

Protective Tariff Demanded by Whole Country, He Said, and Its American

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The first gun in the tariff debate was fired in the House today by Mr. Payne of New York. Before he began his remarks an agreement was reached under which the tariff consideration at the daily sessions shall start at 11 o'clock instead of at noon. In opening Mr. Payne declared that the country was overwhelmingly in favor of a protective tariff. "It is an American policy," he said, "and it seems to be acquiesced in by the great majority of the American people."

Praised Dingley Bill

Mr. Payne declared the Dingley bill had proved to be a boon to the people of the United States, in proof of which he stated the enormous collections of revenue and expenditures under it as shown by his recent report on the bill. This expenditure, he said, included $50,000,000 for the Panama canal, for which no bonds were issued.

"So that," he said, "the entire surplus over the expenditures of the government has been about $120,000,000 during this period."

NEWBURY TRIAL NOW UNDER WAY

District Attorney Langdon Takes Charge of Prosecution of Case

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—With Superior Judge [illegible] of Modoc presiding on the bench, the second trial of Attorney A. S. Newburgh, charged with attempting to bribe J. M. Kell, a juror, was begun in Judge Cabaniss' court this morning.

The defendant was represented by Attorneys [illegible] S. Schlesinger and Robert Ferral, and District Attorney Langdon and Attorney James Hanley appeared for the prosecution. Assistant District Attorney William Hoff Cook, who assumed most of the burden of prosecuting the case on the occasion of the former trial, is absent in Washington in connection with the legal technicalities interposed by George D. Collins, who is in the county jail charged with perjury.

The work of securing a jury was proceeded with.

HUSBAND'S CUSTOMERS INSULT HER, SHE SAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—John C. McClure, a road house proprietor of Contra Costa county, has been made the defendant in a suit for divorce brought by May McClure, who gives cruelty as the chief ground for action. She asserts that she was compelled to live in the rear of the road house and put up with insults at the hands of customers as well as her husband.

She asks for substantial alimony, claiming that McClure is in receipt of an income of $500 a month.

A suit for an accounting to compel her divorced husband, Edwin, to pay her alimony and counsel fees was begun by Margaret Nicol, who received the decree of separation on October 8 last. The man owes her $[illegible].

GREEK MEETS GREEK AND THEY ARE BROTHERS

Two brothers are facing each other in Judge Ellsworth's court. They are N. and G. Symiropoulos, N. being plaintiff and G. defendant. N., who finally admitted that the initial stood for Nick, complained that he held promissory notes for $2300 and $600 against "G.," which he found impossible to collect.

"G." in his answer explained that he was called to his brother's room on October 25, 1907, and found him standing with some folded papers on the table. When the door was locked Nick was said to have drawn a revolver under G.'s nose and compelled him to sign the documents, which he did in a great hurry and while he alleges it was too badly [illegible] to read carefully. The case was partially tried several months ago, and when it came up today for further hearing the proceedings were confined to reading of the stenographer's notes taken at that time.

CHILD LABOR LAW TO BE ENFORCED

Gov. Gillett and Committee Start Crusade to Keep Children Under 16 at School

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—As the result of a recent conference between Governor Gillett and the committee of ministers from the different sections of the State to discuss the child labor law, a crusade has been started against the large firms employing children under sixteen years of age and having no permit from the president of the board of education, which is a requirement of the labor law.

Policeman P. H. Maloney, acting under orders from State Labor Commissioner J. D. Mackenzie, swore to four warrants before Police Judge Shortall this morning for the arrest of the following: C. A[illegible] of the Bemis Brothers Bag Company, Sansome street; J. D. Dance of the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company, and Hugh Vint of the O'Connor-Moffatt Company.

MAYOR PLEASED WITH "BOOSTING" COMMITTEE

Mayor Mott was in consultation with the Chamber of Commerce boosters this morning planning for the big special week coming. Everyone was enthusiastic over the manner the idea is catching on.

"I'm going to get ten new members," he declares, "and I think we ought to get at least 5000 during the week. It's a great plan and will mean a great deal for the city from a publicity point. We have everything necessary to make this a great city providing we don't hide our light under a bushel. I want to see this thing successfully carried out and am willing to do all I can to help it along, for I believe every man in business and every working man should support the Chamber of Commerce."

ROADHOUSE IS NOT GRANTED LICENSE

By Unanimous Vote Supervisors Deny Application of William J. Nixson

PROTEST OF FITCHBURG RESIDENTS WINS OUT

Conducted in Disorderly Manner and Menace to Community is Charge

By a unanimous vote, the Board of Supervisors this morning denied the application of William J. Nixson for a permit to renew the liquor license for his road house at East Fourteenth street and Yoakum avenue, Fitchburg, on the grounds that it was conducted in a disorderly manner and a menace to the community, particularly the children of the neighborhood.

The protest against the place had been filed by the Fitchburg Improvement Club and when it was called up for hearing there was a large delegation of residents on hand to watch the proceedings. W. M. Burke, secretary of the Alameda County Anti-Saloon League, conducted the case for the protestants, and his witnesses were J. F. Kingston, S. Murray, former secretary of the Fitchburg Improvement Association; G. A. Marshall, J. B. Peppin and C. R. Temby.

Undesirable Patrons

Their testimony in effect was that Nixson's place was the rendezvous of dissolute characters of both sexes, that loud and vile language emitted from it to the street at all hours of the day and night to the annoyance of the citizens, that it was the scene of frequent disgraceful brawls and that its moral influence over the community, especially the children, was ruinous.

Murray testified that Nixson permitted his own little children to run loose about the place and expressed the opinion that it was an outrage for any father to bring his offspring up in the midst of such degrading surroundings.

Peppin said he was the father of eight children and was trying to bring them up in a moral and useful atmosphere. He pleaded for the abolition of the saloon because he knew its influence over his children would be bad if it were permitted to continue.

Rather than have his little girl pass the roadhouse going and coming from school, he had taken her out of school altogether.

Calls Saloon Respectable

Nixson entered a general denial of all this testimony and he produced three witnesses to vouch for his good character.

"My place is the most respectable saloon on the San Leandro road," exclaimed Nixson while he was addressing the board.

"God help the others, then," muttered Chairman Horner.

Supervisor Bridge made a motion that Nixson's application be denied.

It was seconded by Supervisor Foss.

Nixson's attorney asked for more time in which to produce additional witnesses for the saloon keeper.

"We want this matter settled this morning," said Burke of the Anti-Saloon League. "We will admit that Nixson can produce other witnesses who will testify to his good character."

"This protest has been made by the Fitchburg Improvement Association, which is made up of sixty-five per cent of the responsible men of that place. That is enough for me," said Bridge, as he insisted on his motion being put.

The action of the board will force Nixson to close his roadhouse at once.

Applications for a permit to renew their liquor licenses were filed by Owen Paul of Fruitvale and William Moore and Raymond Fadle of Niles. They were set for hearing at the meeting of the board on April 12.

Ocean View Valuations

In a communication County Auditor Pierce informed the board that on the report of the county assessor, which fixes the valuation of Ocean View at $962,250, there are road taxes to be refunded to the incorporated town of Ocean View amounting to $3849, less what has been expended on the road. He recommended that this sum should be transferred from Ocean View road fund and the board acted accordingly. It amounts to $2004.05, which will be paid by the county treasurer to A. T. Baker, treasurer of the city of Ocean View.

appearance. He is still sick at his home in Palo Alto. He has assumed an attitude of defiance, and has refused to see either Dr. Montgomery or Seargeant-at-Arms Martin who were commissioned on Saturday last to pass upon his physical condition and if his removal could be effected without endangering his life, to bring him to this city. This defiance was set forth in the following telegram which was received by President Porter of the Senate shortly after noon today:

Palo Alto, March 22.

W. R. Porter, President of the Senate: I beg to inform you, and through you, the Senate of California, that I regard the resolution adopted on Saturday in reference to my absence as discourteous and as a reflection on my honor and integrity, and as proposing an infringement of my privilege and rights as a Senator and a citizen.

I therefore have declined to see persons sent here under this resolution, and shall continue to decline to see them until my physician informs me that I can with safety return to Sacramento.

Ample evidence of my physical condition has been presented to your representatives by four capable and reputable physicians, and these physicians have furnished and will furnish evidence of my condition from time to time, as requested by you or by the Senate.

MARSHALL BLACK.

Lieutenant-Governor Porter has received over the wire an affidavit from Sergeant-at-Arms Martin and Dr. Montgomery, setting forth the fact of the refusal of Senator Black to permit them to see or examine him.

SAMUEL PLATT APPOINTED NEW STEWARD AT HOSPITAL

Takes Place Made Vacant by Death

SAMUEL PLATT.
Who Was Appointed Steward of Receiving Hospital

Samuel Platt has been selected by the Board of Supervisors to fill the position of steward of the Receiving Hospital, made vacant by the death of Steward William M. Crozer, whose funeral occurred this afternoon. He has already entered upon his duties, the pressing need of a steward at the hospital prompting the board to fill the vacancy this morning.

Platt is a protege of Dr. H. B. Mehrmann, former county coroner. He is a professional nurse of many years' experience, has taken a two-year course in medicine and surgery at the Oakland Medical College and served with the Hospital Corps of the regular army in the Philippines, where he did excellent service.

The new steward is about 35 years of age and unmarried. He received the appointment solely on his professional merits, politics not figuring even remotely in his selection. The Supervisors are well pleased with him and expect efficient service from him in the discharge of his duties.

The position which Platt will fill carries a salary of $125 a month and living quarters at the Receiving Hospital.

CHAMBER BEGINS 'BOOSTERS' TABLE'

Progressive Citizens Pledged to Enlarge Membership Working Hard

A "boosters' table" is the very latest innovation of the Chamber of Commerce army, comprising 500 of Oakland's most progressive business men, who, with a clash of cymbals and a popping of big guns, have started out to boom this city in the greater Oakland movement, and each day the table will be enlarged to accommodate the new recruits.

Among those present at the initial luncheon this afternoon were: Mayor F. K. Mott, Edwin Stearns, I. H. Clay, G. B. Barnhardt, H. C. Capwell, A. S. Lavenson, K. A. Millican, Frank Leach Jr., E. P. Muller, E. G. Ryker, W. E. Gibson and E. B. Bull.

JAPANESE GUESTION IS SETTLED, SAYS PARDEE

BOSTON, March 22.—In an interview in this city last night, former Governor George C. Pardee of California stated he believed the crisis of the Japanese affairs had been passed, although the situation was still delicate and very acute. Governor Pardee said he believed the credit of the settlement of the matter was due to the fact that the California Legislature did not go as far into the anti-Japanese legislation as it did before the national government interfered.

"I believe the problem will eventually be settled," said Governor Pardee, "by the voluntary withdrawal of the Japanese from the Pacific coast, and I believe that is the only possible way that it can be settled.

FLINT WANTS NAVAL BASE IN THE SOUTH

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The appointment of a board to report on the advisability of establishing a naval base on the southern coast of California is provided for in a resolution introduced today by Flint. The form of the resolution is similar to a provision stricken out of the naval appropriation bill while it was on its passage in the Senate.

CARPENTERS ADOPT ANTI-JAP RESOLUTIONS

Carpenters of this city have now taken up the question of the inroads being made by Japanese into certain branches of the building trade. The District Council of Carpenters, which is the controlling factor in carpenters' unions, has adopted strong anti-Japanese resolutions for the purpose, the members declare, of bringing the question before all unions in California, and by means of circulation through the national union body to all unions of the country.

The alleged cause of the resolutions was the fact that two union carpenters insisted on taking February 22 as a holiday and returned to work to find their places taken by Japanese.

OLD SUIT COMES INTO COURT AGAIN

Action of A. C. Weber to Oust Mrs. McCleverty From Harrison Street Property

A suit which Judge Ellsworth decided in 1901 and which has twice been before the Supreme court since then, was brought up for trial again in Judge Harris' department of the Superior court today. It is an action of Adolph C. Weber, former president of the Humboldt Savings bank, to dispossess Mrs. Mary McCleverty from her alleged homestead property on the west side of Harrison street north of Fourteenth street.

In her answer Mrs. McCleverty claimed the place as a homestead and said that it had been improperly sold to indemnify the bank for a deed of trust which they held against her.

The deed of trust was for $57,618.50 and in addition to including the homestead was largely secured by business property on the east side of Broadway, which had the shape of a letter T with frontages on Eighth street and Seventh street, with the corner lots owned by other parties.

Mrs. McCleverty alleged that the business property could have been made to bring money to settle the deed of trust without taking her homestead although the homestead was included. The question now devolves upon an adjustment of values for the year 1901.

Judge Ellsworth first decided in favor of Mrs. McCleverty and the Supreme court of the State affirmed the decision. Subsequently every bank in San Francisco petitioned to have the case reheard on the ground that the decision would upset property rights throughout the State. The justices then sat en banc and as a result of their second deliberation remanded the case for trial in the Superior court.

COAL ENERGY GOES MOSTLY UP STACKS

It is estimated, so says the Scientific American, that 150 million tons of coal are used annually by the railways of the United States, out of which but 7½ million tons are used in drawing the trains while 142½ million tons go up the smokestack. And a recent English writer, John W. Graham, declares that a locomotive uses 1½ tons of coal per day on an average, and scatters the smoke of thirty-six pounds of coal over every mile on fast trains.

In and around New York city the aid of the public utility commission had to be invoked to abate the nuisances maintained by these two roads in the matter of smoke. The New York Central in January last was ordered, "directed and required to cease and desist from the use of soft coal on any of the engines used by it on its New York and Putnam division while within the corporate limits of the city and to institute and continue the use of hard coal on its engines."

The New York, New Haven & Hartford road was "directed and required to cease and desist from suffering or permitting in any manner the emission of black smoke from the stacks of the engines in use on the company's lines" while in the Harlem river terminal yard, and moreover it was ordered to cover all soft coal fires in engines with coke and to continually feed and replenish them with coke while the engines are in the yard.

To sum up: The elimination of the smoke nuisance, so far as the railroads are concerned, is feasible. Primarily it is a matter of proper firing and the use of the right sort of materials. The railroad officials are considering the question from various standpoints, some with a sincere desire to do all that possibly can be done as quickly as possible; others as rapidly as they are forced to do it by law and by a militant public opinion, and a rear guard of holdbacks who are still closing their eyes to the obviously inevitable.

ELDERLY WOMAN MEETS DEATH IN STORM

Body Found in Berkeley is Identified as That of Mrs. Mildner

PERISHES ON TRIP TO GATHER WILD FLOWERS

Wanders at Random Over Hills and is Caught in Heavy Rain

BERKELEY, March 22. — After lying twenty-four hours in the morgue, the remains of the elderly woman found yesterday morning on Monterey avenue, in the annexed portion of Berkeley to the north were identified shortly before noon today as those of Mrs. Clara Mildner, wife of Edward Mildner, a Southern Pacific shipbuilder, living at 770 Twenty-second street, Oakland. Mrs. Mildner, who is 54 years of age, left home early Saturday morning after her husband had gone to work, ostensibly to gather wild flowers. The weather was bright and warm and the details of the tragedy that led to her disheveled and storm-bedraggled body being found twenty-four hours afterwards in the gutter of a deserted street in the Berkeley hills have yet to be learned.

Mrs. Mildner has been in poor health for some months, and it may be that she fell exhausted or wandered at random over the hills to the north of Berkeley until exhausted, that, sitting down to rest, was unable to rise until overtaken by the fierce storm that deluged the bay region Saturday evening and night. Her movements after leaving home are a blank to her husband and friends, who identified the poor, storm-washed body this morning. The woman's failure to return home Saturday night was not alarming, as she had friends in North Oakland whom she was in the habit of visiting, and it was not until the husband read the news of the description of the occupant of the Berkeley morgue this morning in the newspapers that he decided to investigate.

Found by Boy

Mrs. Mildner's body was found by Charles Oitman, a school boy, living near the intersection of the Alameda and Monterey, in the north end of the Northbrae tract, who was on his way to seek mushrooms after the rain of the night before. The spot is a lonely one, the nearest house being a quarter of a mile away and the terminus of the street car line on the Grove-street extension 200 yards to the south.

The body was covered with mud and slush. It lay on its back, with the stark face upturned to the cold, wet morning air and driving rain. Mrs. Mildner had evidently been dead for some hours and had been exposed to the fury of the storm that raged with violence all through Saturday night. Monterey avenue at this point is partially graded, the street bed being only a deep cut in the hillside, affording an improvised channel for the torrents of water that had flowed from the hills to the north the preceding night.

Caught by Waters

It was evident that the body had been caught in this swirl of waters. It was encased in mud and washed detritus from the hillside and banks of the depression of the street. Everything was water-soaked. Whatever had happened her, the Coroner could find no marks of violence or foul play. A purse containing $12.60 was found pinned to her corset in the water-washed bosom and a plain gold wedding ring adorned her left hand.

Everything spoke of long exposure to wind and rain and the authorities believe that she had wandered into the North Berkeley hills after dropping from a Grove-street car, attracted by the wealth of poppies and other wild flowers, which now deck the landscape, and became exhausted, or possibly tumbled over the bank of Monterey avenue and was unable to help herself or secure succor until the blinding storm shut out hope of escape or rescue.

satisfied with the Coroner's jury decision that death was due to pneumonia. Mr. Foster is said to have had about $200 the last time he was seen and was not obliged to travel in a box car.

Mr. Foster's relatives think that his death was due to foul play. Mr. Foster was 73 years of age and formerly was engaged in the grain business in this city. In January he went to Santa Barbara to visit relatives, leaving that place on March 15 to visit a niece at Oakland. He had no children. He is survived by a widow and three brothers.

JACOB A. RIIS TO LECTURE ON SLUMS

Jacob A. Riis, one of the best-known and most eloquent lecturers in the United States, will give his famous lecture, "The Battle With the Slums," at the Common School assembly hall tomorrow night. In this lecture Mr. Riis will picture the conditions of living in the New York slums, and tell of the struggle that has been made for bettering the conditions of the poor in the tenements. His lantern slides are pictures of the tenements taken by Riis while a police reporter for the New York Sun.

The lecture is being given for the benefit of the students of the Oakland High School. The public is invited.

AOKI'S FIANCEE SUFFERING COLLAPSE

Strain of Past Few Days Telling on Miss Emery, Engaged to Japanese

EVADES QUESTIONS BUT TALKS ON WEATHER

Refuses to Talk On So-Called Love Letters Published in Paper

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Miss Helen Gladys Emery is breaking down. The strain of the last few days is telling upon Gunyero Aoki's fiancee and her appearance gives every evidence of imminent collapse. Her face, which a short week ago was tinged with the rosy hue of health, is today a sickly, dough white. Blue rings circle her eyes and the expression in them is one of deep anxiety. They have that terrible staring appearance of eyes that have not closed recently in sleep, while her tense poise plainly shows the intense excitement under which she is laboring.

Her repose and her wonderful calm are all gone. Her speech is jerky and while she is talking it is very evident that her thoughts are far away.

Marriage to Take Place

Mother and daughter came to San Francisco from Corte Madera early this morning. The events of the last few days seemingly have made the mother more determined than ever that the marriage of her daughter and their erstwhile Japanese man-of-all-work shall take place.

Unlike a few days ago, it is Miss Emery who now answers questions and with a sickly little smile tries to make conversation, but her attitude, which was before one of consent and acquiescence, today seemed to be that of one prepared to lead in unexpected directions.

Her eyes were red, as if they had recently known tears, but the light in them was steady and the expression of the tightly closed mouth was firm and determined.

"I do not know where Mr. Aoki is," said Miss Emery. "Probably his people in Oakland do.

"I have nothing to say about the so-called love letter of mine to him that was published in a morning paper. I did not see the paper, so I do not know whether it is one of mine or not.

"I do not know that Mr. Aoki sold that letter to the paper in question. Neither do I know that the letter was stolen. It is probable that it may have been.

"What beautiful weather we are having," went on Miss Emery, and while the expression of great pain and intense worry brought blue lines about her mouth. She could not be induced to speak further about his letters. All reference to them she met with a harassed look and an evident desire to avoid all discussion in relation to them.

When asked whether it was true that her father had given his consent to her marriage with Aoki she answered, "Ask father."

"Ask Mr. Aoki" was her reply to the question "When are you going to be married?"

The only positive and definite answer Miss Emery would give was in reference to the date of her marriage to Gunyero Aoki.

"I do not know when it is to take place," she declared.

"This much I know, it will not take place in three days."

GIANT SUED BY ROSSOW MIDGETS

$15,000 is Stake of Remarkable Lawsuit in N. Y. Supreme Court

NEW YORK, March 22.—This is a story of two dwarfs, who are pitted against a giant in the Supreme Court.

The dwarfs are suing the giant, because, they say, he took their money and gave them his name. After sixteen years they have decided their own name good enough, and although they are dwarfs they have managed to get up sufficient courage to tell the giant just how much they feel about it.

Of course, they are modern dwarfs and he is a modern giant, so that explains why they've taken their grievance to court.

Rossow Midgets

The dwarfs are Franz and Carl Actermeier, known in vaudeville, in this country and abroad, as the Rossow Midgets. The giant is Herman Rossow.

It appears, according to Charles C. Cormany, of the law firm of Edward M. Burghard, No. 20 Broadway, counsel for the Actermeiers, that Rossow "discovered" the midgets in Saxony in 1891. He saw great possibilities in them from a commercial standpoint and proposed to their father, a poor farmer, that he (Rossow) be permitted to take the little fellows away with him. A contract was signed, Rossow agreeing to pay $7.50 per month to the father and defray the traveling and living expenses of the dwarfs. At that time Franz was 14 and Carl 11.

Pays $35 a Month

It is alleged that Rossow has traveled all over the world with the midgets, even into the remote corners of South America and [illegible] an [illegible] fortune [illegible] half a [illegible] he never [illegible] their [illegible] the elder [illegible] age. The [illegible] under the age [illegible] a week to $600 [illegible] 11, [illegible] the distinction of [illegible] the longest engagement of all vaudeville teams.

Two years ago, when Carl was visiting his home in Saxony, he was taken ill. It was then that the breach occurred between the midgets and Rossow. The latter came to America and purchased a large farm in Indiana, after which he wrote to the dwarfs, urging them to come on, but they refused.

Rossow told the elder Actermeier he had provided well for the dwarfs, having opened several savings bank accounts for them in America which he held in trust. But when he was informed that the dwarfs intended to break with him and take their big brother, William, out with them as their manager, Rossow didn't like it.

Owing to the heavy load [illegible] which the "America" carried it is not [illegible]ought possible that the balloon succee[illegible]d in clearing the three ranges of m[illegible]ntains and gaining the Mojave desert t[illegible] northward.

The bag ascended from the [illegible]round with but twenty sacks of sand a[illegible] ballast and several of these bags were e[illegible]ptied in order to gain a higher altitud[illegible] as the balloon reached Mount Lowe [illegible]bove Pasadena. With but little sa[illegible] left after gaining the summit of the fi[illegible] range and the cold weather prevailing [illegible]hich would have the effect of condensin[illegible] the gas in the bag and lessening its lif[illegible]g power it is more than likely that [illegible]ueller was forced to bring the bag to [illegible]arth somewhere in the mountains e[illegible]ly Sunday night.

[illegible] It is proposed to send up another b[illegible]lloon today from Pasadena in an effort [illegible] gain sight of the men if they are in th[illegible] mountains, but this is not deemed feasi[illegible]e, owing to the impossibility of seeing [illegible]y distance through the blinding snow st[illegible]m.

Inquiry by telegraph of r[illegible]ilroad and telegraph companies' operat[illegible]s for miles in all directions failed to e[illegible]it any information about the balloon. Along the [illegible]each a high wind and heavy rain preval[illegible]d and considerable minor damage to [illegible]arbor craft has been reported.

Dick Ferris, owner of [illegible]he balloon "America" is confident not[illegible]ithstanding the desperate prospects, that [illegible]he men will land in safety. It is his bel[illegible]f that Captain Mueller would reach a l[illegible]ding somewhere in the mountains and [illegible]hat he has not yet been able to reach [illegible] a point of communication. Telephone inquiries to mi[illegible]ng properties at various points in th[illegible] mountains today brought only news of [illegible] the terrific blizzard and snow storm th[illegible] is raging. In some cases the lines had [illegible]een carried down by the storm.

FIVE HUNDRED PROTEST TO BOARD

Brooklyn Residents Petition Supervisors to Refuse Traction Permit

DON'T WANT ANY LINE THROUGH THE TOWNSHIP

Matter Will Be Discussed at Adjourned Meeting Late This Afternoon

"We, the undersigned, being residents and voters of Brooklyn township, county of Alameda, herewith and hereby petition your honorable board and request that no permit be granted to the Oakland Traction company (a corporation) or to any other corporation or individual for the operation and conduct of a street railway in the said Brooklyn township.

"And your petitioners hereby and now request that your honorable board have his petition placed on file and made part of the records of the Board of Supervisors of the said Alameda county."

The taxpayers who are fighting the Oakland Traction company for a five cent fare from Oakland to Leona Heights, over the line of the California Railway, together with other concessions, filed this petition with the Board of Supervisors as another move to bring the company to terms.

500 Signatures

It consists of five lists of names which represent about 500 signatures of residents along the line, in Elmhurst, Fitchburg and other suburban settlements, the idea being to place the supervisors on record as to their attitude toward the traction people, in view of the fact that at the last meeting of the board the latter had refused to authorize the district attorney's office to enjoin the railway people from operating their cars over county roads along the route in controversy until it had established its right under the law to do so.

It was not until late this afternoon that the petition referred to was formally brought to its attention, and adjournment of the morning session having been taken until 2:30 o'clock, so the delegation of suburbanites that brought the big petition in was compelled to wait around the greater part of the day to see what action the board would take on their paper.

Protestants Theory

It seems to be the impression of those who are engineering the fight against the railway people that the supervisors have the right, under the law, to give away valuable public concessions by simply granting a corporation a "permit" to use certain rights-of-way without any reference to taking out a franchise and they claim that where such "permit" is granted the corporation may operate its plant without a franchise. The Brooklyn Township protestants say that they want none of this sort of "supervisoral benevolence" in their district, and although the board has never yet attempted to impose such a permit upon them that they intend to fix things so that it cannot take the liberty if at any time in the future it should be so inclined.

Disputes Claim

Attorney Engs, of counsel for the traction people, regarded the petition as a joke when asked about it this morning. He said the petitioners were laboring under an altogether mistaken idea of the law governing transportation franchises if they thought it granted to the board the right to give these "permits" in lieu of franchises. With reference to steam railways he said that the mere filing of a company's articles of incorporation with the State carried with it the right to build its lines.

It had always been the practice for these companies to secure permission from the county officials to cross county roads, but that was a mere formality, because competent legal authority has determined that this is not necessary. As regards street railway companies, they must secure county and city authorization to operate their lines from the respective governments, this authorization being required to be in the form of a right-of-way franchise. There is absolutely no such a thing as the Board of Supervisors having the right to grant "permits"—temporary or otherwise—to cover these concessions in place of a franchise, according to Engs.

SAN DIEGO TO TRY NEW PLAN

71 Candidates for the 12 Offices to be Elected Under New City Primary Law

SAN DIEGO, March 22.—With seventy-one candidates in the race for twelve offices, San Diego will tomorrow hold her first primary election under the terms of her new city charter, founded on the Des Moines plan. A mayor, five councilmen, a city treasurer and five members of the Board of Education are to be nominated. Under the terms of the charter the two candidates for mayor and city treasurer, respectively, receiving the greatest number of votes to become the candidates at the regular election, April 6, and the ten candidates for councilmen and school board members, receiving the largest number of votes to become the regular candidates for those offices. This will make twenty-four candidates for the twelve vacancies to be voted on at the April election.

WILL DISCUSS PLANS FOR BIG BOOST WEEK

A meeting of directors of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce will be held Tuesday evening next, the regular monthly open meeting, at which all members are invited to be present. Aside from regular business of the Chamber, plans for Chamber of Commerce week will be presented, and as every member of the Chamber is interested in this effort to secure a membership of at least five thousand, all should attend.

UNDER PSYCHIC INFLUENCE, SHE SAYS

Woman Declares She is Put Under Spell in Order to Make Robbery Easy

$80,000 FORTUNE IS INVOLVED IN CASE

British Consul to Look After Interests of Aged English Subject

ALAMEDA, March 22.—Psychic influence, as practiced over her by Mme. Young, at the suggestion of Attorney Howard K. James of this city and E. C. Miles, another lawyer, have, according to the statements of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Van Diern of 1616 Point Lobos avenue, San Francisco, almost driven her crazy, and she has appealed to the British consulate and the district attorney's office of San Francisco, imploring an investigation of the treatment, which she says is a plot to rob her of her rights to a fortune of $80,000.

Alone in the world, sixty-one years of age and knowing practically nothing of business affairs, this aged woman tells a story implicating Howard K. James of this city, Miles and Mme. Young, the seeress who formerly occupied the Hayes home on Central avenue in this city.

Charge Brutality

James has been associated with Miles in business, and Mrs. Van Diern says that these two men introduced her to various psychics and after she had been subjected to their occult influence took her to a house in Fruitvale, where she was mistreated.

"They kept me a prisoner in this place and I was stripped of my clothing so that I could not escape. The treatment of these two men has driven me to the verge of insanity," she declares.

Says She Is Insane

James said to a TRIBUNE representative today: "The whole story of this woman is unqualifiedly false. It is the rankest fake I have ever heard of. The woman is as crazy as anyone could be. My position in the case has been one of ordinary courtesy. Several weeks ago my partner, E. C. Miles, came to me and asked me if I would swear to a complaint charging Mrs. Van Diern with insanity. He asked this as a favor of me. He did not want to do it, as the woman would then a[illegible] ill feeling toward him, but he thought that I, not knowing Mrs. Van Diern, could do it very well. She came to my office with Miles one day and from her manner and appearance I judged her to be insane immediately. All this talk about psychic influence is rot. I never introduced this woman to a seeress.

"When Mrs. Van Diern came to my office, I, after observing her condition, sent for Dr. Stafford, who did not even prescribe for her. He simply made a cursory examination and stated that it was his opinion that the woman should be committed to an insane asylum at once. I have given the district attorney's office the full data on the case. I will not ask for a grand jury investigation, as I think that the district attorney's office is competent to do its work."

James had Mrs. Van Diern tried for insanity before Judge Harris in Oakland about a week ago and he adjudged her sane. An immediate investigation of the case will be made by the British consul, Wellesley Moore, and the district attorney's office of San Francisco.

IMPROVEMENT IN STREETS URGED

Committee Named to Take Charge of Bettering Conditions in Hayward

HAYWARD, March 22.—At the last meeting of the Chamber of Commerce a standing committee composed of James B. French, John Allen Park and Jacob Harder was appointed for the purpose of devising plans for the betterment of the streets of Hayward, of the sewerage system and all other civic conditions.

This committee will also take steps to erect a band stand in the town plaza and arrange with the two bands here to play every Sunday. This scheme, it is believed, will be productive of great results in the general plan of the advertisement of the town, for undoubtedly the music will attract large crowds from outside towns as well as residents of the place.

A communication was received from the Alameda County Anti-Smelter Association, of which President William Angus of the Chamber of Commerce is a director, asking the assistance of the chamber in its fight against the establishment of a smelter in San Mateo county. Most of the members had received communications, so it was decided that the members and not the chamber help toward defraying the natural expenses of the association.

'Baggage-Buster Poet' Wants Job As Commissioner

JAMES M. McDERMOTT, Candidate for Commissioner of Berkeley.

W. E. RATHKE, South Berkeley Druggist, Candidate for Commissioner in Berkeley Election.

BERKELEY, March 22.—With the closing of Town Clerk Mendenhall's office this noon three petitions for nomination for the office of Commissioner were filed, Alvin Kellie, James McDermott and John Boyd being the contestants. Kellie was the first man to announce his candidacy under the new charter and is well known to Berkeleyans, being a prominent Elk and harness merchant. McDermott, also an Elk, is one of the oldest realty men in the city. Boyd is an old Grand Army man, possibly the best-known of the three, having been prominently connected with Berkeley affairs for the last thirty years. He has written many articles for newspapers and magazines and is known as the "baggage buster poet." Boyd has been in the express business for years and is known to all Berkeleyans.

Among the latest aspirants to the office of commissioner is W. E. Rathke, a prominent South Berkeley druggist, who is reported to have the solid backing of his district. Rathke announced his candidacy and filed his petition today.

U. S. CUTTERS TO GUARD REGATTAS

Government to Give Use of Its Vessels to Universities During Races

BERKELEY, March 22.—Through the efforts of Graduate Manager Ralph Merritt of the University of California, a new feature will be introduced in the intercollegiate boat races soon to take place.

In the East the Federal Department of Commerce and Labor takes charge of the college regattas, providing government boats to keep the course of the race clear of other boats. Manager Merritt has communicated the information of the California races to this department, requesting the same help, which will result in the course of this year's race being guarded by revenue cutters.

Penalties of heavy fines are placed on vessels breaking the lines.

BERKELEY, March 22.—Robert Stanton McCullagh, who as Roberto Stantini was well known as a musician in San Francisco before the fire, died in this city last night of pneumonia. He was 52 years old and a native of Ireland.

McCullagh was a singer of note and for many years gave instruction in San Francisco and after the fire moved to Berkeley. His funeral will be held from the home of his sister, Mrs. Eleanor Mulvaney, of 1[illegible]1 Hopkins street tomorrow afternoon.

LAYING OF CHURCH CORNERSTONE DELAYED

BERKELEY, March 22.—The laying of the College Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church cornerstone, which was scheduled to take place in this city yesterday, was postponed on account of the rain until further notice. Work on the church was begun some time ago but has been delayed several times on account of rain. As soon as the weather clears the construction of the building will be hurried to completion.

INVESTIGATING WIRE-TAPPING SUSPECT

Gropp Believed by Police to be Innocent of Complicity in Plot

PRISONERS "SHADOWED" BY POLICE FOR DAYS

Munday Released on $3,000 Bonds; Preliminary Hearing Comes Up Tomorrow

BERKELEY, March 22.—Further investigations are being made by the Berkeley police in the matter of the men arrested Saturday afternoon on the charge of wire tapping, when George Gropp, Frank Munday, Joseph Robertson and Fred Reed were taken into custody, Robertson and Reed in the room in West Berkeley where the wire-tapping instruments were found, and Gropp and Munday at the pool room in Ocean View, where they are charged with betting on the horse signalled as having won at the track by the men at the cut out.

According to the police the men had cut the wire leading from the track at Emeryville to the pool room near the county line and operated a telephone instrument on the cut with a knife switch, first intercepting the message from the track and ascertaining the winning horse, then sending it on in revised order so that Munday, whom the police charge with the betting, could ascertain the winner by signal before the end of the race was announced. The signal was stated to be as follows: If the horse marked 3 on the dope sheet were to win, the message "2 is acting badly" came over the wire. This served as a guide to the accomplice, who looked for the next horse on the sheet and bet on him to win, winning his stake.

Aware of Scheme Some Time

Gropp, who was suspected because he played the same horses that Munday did, is now believed by the police to be innocent of complicity in the wire tapping plot, but merely the possessor of inside information from Munday.

According to the confession which the police claim to have received from Robertson, the men each received 10 per cent of the profits of the transaction, with the exception of Reed, who gained an additional $10 above this percentage. The police are looking for a man who stood behind the scheme and received the remaining profit, and several arrests are expected. The Ocean View authorities state that they have a good idea of the identity of the person, but are gaining evidence, and the Berkeley police take the same attitude.

"We knew of the matter for some time," stated Special Officer Clarence Morrill, who handled the pool room arrests. "We saw the instruments purchased in San Francisco and were informed by John Wooley each time the men cut in on the wire, Wooley being part owner of the pool room operating the telephone and recognizing the strange voices. We first got an inkling of the plot from a conversation I heard between two of the men on the street."

Munday was released yesterday on $3000 bonds, the rest remaining in the police station. They will come up for a preliminary hearing in the court of Justice Robert Edgar tomorrow morning.

SENT TO JAIL FOR NOT ANSWERING

Harper Case Witness Refuses to Reply to Grand Jurors and is Imprisoned

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—Joseph Durand, alleged lieutenant of Nick Oswald, the tenderloin property owner, who has been held in jail for several days as a witness before the grand jury, was brought before Judge James in the Superior court today and formally sentenced to jail until March 29 for refusing to answer questions propounded to him by Foreman J. E. Fishburn of the grand jury. On that date Durand will be ordered to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court.

BAKERS TO GO TO SCHOOL OF BAKING

University Experts to Teach all About Gluten, Bacteriology and Fermentation

HOPE TO ESTABLISH PERMANENT INSTITUTION

Three Sessions of Interest to Cooks to be Held on Wednesday

BERKELEY, March 22.—The California State Bakers' Institute, under the auspices of the University Extension in Agriculture, will hold the first free educative course for the bakers' trade at the University of California on Wednesday.

The institute is a branch of the California Bakers' Association. Its aim is to better the bakers' trade in this State by holding out to the individual baker an opportunity to secure a free training. By this it means not to show a baker how to turn out a loaf of bread or spread the jelly in a layer cake, but to teach the why and wherefores of the things a baker deals with and to show him the conditions that are liable to effect the results of his work. Furthermore, it offers the chance of learning how to test the goods the baker uses.

In Experimental Stage

At present the school is in its infancy and is only an experiment. That it will develop into a great school for bakers is the earnest hope of the originators.

The following is the program of the three meetings which will be held on Wednesday:

Wednesday morning, 10 o'clock—Address of welcome, Prof. E. J. Wickson; University Extension in Agriculture in its Relation to Commercial Industries, Prof. W. T. Clarke; "Relation of College of Agriculture to Millers and Bakers," Prof. G. W. Shaw; Fermentation in Breadmaking, Yeast, Malt Extracts, Etc., Hans C. Holm.

Wednesday afternoon, 2 o'clock—The Standpoint of National and State Pure Food Laws With Reference to Bakers' Raw Materials, Prof. M. E. Jaffa; "Some Phases of the Gluten Question," Prof. G. W. Shaw; Bacteriology and the Baking Industry, Dr. C. M. Haring.

Evening session, 8 o'clock—The Mutual Interests of Baker and Housekeeper—Sanitary Delivery of Bakers' Products, Etc., Miss Bertha C. [illegible], supervisor of domestic science, Berkeley public schools; Food Value of Bread, Prof. M. E. Jaffa; Bake Shop—Hygiene and Sanitation, Dr. Allen F. Gillihan.

First Settler of Estudillo Passes Away

MRS. ALVINA DE MONT, Pioneer Who is Dead.

SAN LEANDRO, March 22.—Mrs. Alvina De Mont, one of the oldest pioneers of the State of California, died yesterday morning at her home in San Leandro after a lingering illness. Deceased was 91 years of age and a native of Maine. She is survived by her son, George P. De Mont.

Mrs. De Mont first settled in San Leandro in the early days of 1849 with her husband, Joseph De Mont, who passed away eighteen years ago.

They were the first settlers on the famous Estudillo grant, and the ranch which they started has been a source of increasing wealth ever since. When Mrs. De Mont first settled in California San Leandro contained a store and a blacksmith shop, and the De Monts were the prime movers in the building up of the town.

Mrs. De Mont, despite her age, was active until within a few years of her death, and her hospitality was well known. She was esteemed and respected throughout the State.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Presbyterian Church in San Leandro. Interment will be in San Lorenzo Grove cemetery.

POLYGAMIST TO BE CONVICT 8 YEARS

J. M. Church, Said to Have Numberless Wives, Brought to Sudden Halt

READY TO WED ANYONE WHO WOULD HAVE HIM

Testimony From Spouse in Berkeley Leads Perfidious Man to Admit Guilt

BERKELEY, March 22.—J. M. Church, who is said to have a wife in nearly every state in the Union, who has made the boast that he would marry every woman who would have him, and whose bigamous marriages have caused no end of suffering to deserted women and children throughout the United States, was brought to a sudden halt in his matrimonial madness Saturday, when Judge [illegible] of San Bernardino sentenced him to serve eight years in San Quentin.

Church has wives and children in Berkeley, Kansas and [illegible], N. M., his last bigamous marriage being to Mrs. Margaret Matthews of Redlands.

Expelled From House

The wife in New Mexico and the wife in Berkeley, upon hearing of his latest misalliance, promptly apprised Mrs. Matthews Church of the man's perfidy. Church was driven from Mrs. Matthews' home and the letters from the previous wives placed in the hands of the district attorney.

Church first denied the charge of bigamy, but when he was brought face to face with the letters he pleaded guilty. He states that he loves Mrs. Matthews best of all.

Church is 54 years of age. He was first married when he was 24, to the woman in Kansas who bore him children. These he cruelly deserted, coming to California, and settling in Berkeley. After marrying here he again deserted his wife, settling in various states and towns wherever he would find a woman who would marry him.

PUPILS NEED ROD, STATE TEACHERS

Some Scholars Just Have to Have Thrashing, They Declare

CHICAGO March 22—The efficacy of corporal punishment in the public schools again has been brought to the front as a topic of discussion by the Rev M H Boynton a Baptist minister who though declining to express his own views on the subject declares that he has written to a number of teachers and has found only one who believes that the abolition of such punishment has aided discipline

One letter made public says "There is a spirit of lawlessness and disrespect a spirit of 'I'll do what I please' and a disregard for the rights of others that is appalling When other methods of discipline have been used and found wanting, I believe that the refractory pupils should be given a sound trouncing by the principal"

Some Need Thrashing

Another says "It would help matters if the sterner methods of discipline were revived I do believe that they could be dispensed with in most cases but there are some children that simply must have corporal punishment in order to behave"

Still another teacher asserts that a large percentage of refractory pupils would be under control if they merely knew that the teacher or principal had power to punish them

DEATH RATE IN AMERICA GROWING

Lowest Was in South Dakota and the Highest Was in California

WASHINGTON March 22—The Bureau of the Census has just published its eighth annual report on mortality statistics which presents the figures for the calendar year 1907 together with comparative data for the years 1903 to 1906 inclusive The statistics given in the report do not cover the entire country but only that portion of the United States known as the "registration area" which in 1907 included fifteen States the District of Columbia and seventy six other cities The fifteen registration States were California Colorado Connecticut Indiana Maine Maryland Massachusetts, Michigan New Hampshire New Jersey New York Pennsylvania Rhode Island, South Dakota and Vermont

South Dakota Indiana and Michigan had the lowest death rates in 1907 while California Rhode Island and Colorado had the highest New York had the fourth highest

The total number of deaths reported for the registration area in 1907 was 687 034 corresponding to a death rate of 16 5 per 1000 of estimated population In 1906 the rate was 16 1

Of all the deaths in the registration area in 1907 11 2 per cent were caused by the various forms of tuberculosis 9 8 per cent by pneumonia (all forms) 8 6 per cent by heart disease 7 6 per cent by violence and 7 1 per cent by diarrhoea and enteritis

Of those dying within the registration area during the year 1907 375 990 were males and 311 044 females

More than one fourth (183 774 or 26 8 per cent) of the deaths were of children under five years of age Nearly one-fifth (131 110 or 19 1 per cent) of the total number of deaths were of infants under one year of age

Since the Southern States are not included in the registration area the statistics concerning the mortality of the colored race are meagre

Every Man Worth $100 a Year to City in Which He Lives

CHICAGO March 22—The regular bulletin of the Health Department this week is largely devoted to a plea to voters in behalf of the proposed municipal tuberculosis sanitarium Outside of the more important question of humanitarianism it is declared that there is the problem of finance that the city has to cope with in caring for consumptives

Professor James W Glover of the University of Michigan has estimated that the average earning capacity of a resident of Chicago is $100 a year and at that rate figuring a natural lifetime of a wage earner the death from consumption in 1908 in this city taking men only into account caused a loss of $1 767 611 This loss it is contended is either maintained or exceeded each year

"Now bear in mind" says the health bulletin "this one and one third million a year represents only what the community loses What is the family loss? A man is worth $100 to the city add to this what he is worth as the head of a family to that family what he is worth as a working head in a growing business to that business Will $10 000 000 touch it?"

SEWAGE SHOULD NOT BE WASTED

Sir James Grant Says Stream Pollution Should Be Turned to Land Fertilization

NEW YORK March 22—Sir James Alexander Grant K C M G eldest-regal physician in Canada is at the Murray Hill Hotel having been called to this city on some important cases in consultation His home is at Ottawa Canada While in Parliament he introduced the original bill providing for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway

When asked yesterday what in his opinion was the most important question confronting the people of North America Sir James unhesitatingly and vigorously replied

Sewage Important Factor

"Turn to practical account general sewage as is done in Japan, utilize this sewage for the fertilization of unproductive areas and there is no saying how many lives may be saved and how many millions will be added to both the United States and Canada by so desirable an undertaking"

Before he would proceed further along this line Sir James paid eloquent tribute to Ex-President Roosevelt who he said was looked upon in Canada as next in greatness only to Washington

"Mr Roosevelt's recent communication to Lord Grey Governor General of Canada as to the desirability of the conservation of the resources of both countries was most warmly received and was a strong evidence of the good feeling he wished to promote in all matters of this character on the North American continent" said Sir James

"The commission that recently met in Washington to join in with the American commissioners was most warmly received and a bill has just been introduced in the Canadian Parliament to place this whole subject so far as Canada is concerned on a substantial basis

Must Consider Public Health

"In this whole subject the matter of public health stands out prominently and the conclusion now arrived at is that sewage from the towns and cities discharged into the streams of both countries is doing much to generate typhoid fever and other diseases so fatal in their results If we will utilize this sewage as Japan is doing today great results will follow The purity of water thus conserved has a most important bearing on the purity of milk which as an article of diet is almost looked upon today as the pabulum of life

"The debilitating influence of impure water and impure milk cannot be overestimated This has in my opinion most to do with a general lowering of the system which prepares the body in thickly crowded localities for the production of tuberculosis the mortality from which is not less in this republic than one hundred thousand lives annually

"What a great work your ex-president will have accomplished if his suggestions in these things are only carried out carefully and turned to practical account In fact I consider this move as one of the greatest of the present time toward the preservation of the health and vitality of our people"

DR. EMIL HIRSCH GRILLS PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

CHICAGO March 22—Dr Emil G Hirsch grills the public school system and believes that two hours of study and two hours of manual training is better than six hours of study and recitation In a communication upon the subject to his congregation he says

"I plead for the utilitarian subjects and at the risk of being criticised by every editor I assert that only one language should be taught in the grades Let the cultural subjects be reserved for the child when he is able to receive culture

"The American school system was founded on the idea that any man could do anything and that it was not necessary to learn any one thing It is now necessary that a child find out what he can and cannot do The school should help him

SENATORS EYE U. S. EXPENSES

Want to Know Where All Money Spent By Government Goes

WASHINGTON March 22—There will be a new order in the making of appropriations in the present Congress if the purposes of several senators are realized after Congress assembles in the first regular session next December

These senators are looking forward to some plan by which Congress may be fully informed concerning the expenditure of government money which it is declared, is now known only in a general way It is understood by many members of the senate that the method of auditing accounts in some of the departments is one that permits the approval of vouchers for expenditures that are not actually made, but which stand for items of expense that would not so readily meet popular approval if plainly named

To Overhaul Accounts

There will be an effort to reduce the appropriations for vague purposes and to confine them as far as possible to specific purposes then to overhaul the accounting systems of the departments so that Congress will have greater access to the exact purposes for which the money has been expended It is said the process of short circuiting Congress in the expenditure of appropriations which was referred to in the debates of the last session by Hemenway has been carried on extensively in several departments Just what plan will be adopted to allow Congress to follow appropriations when their expenditure has not been determined but several senators are now giving a great deal of thought to what they regard as an important matter in regard to the financial affairs of the government

It was raised by the Bulletin against Mayor Mott during he recent municipal campaign in this city. It was raised by Assemblyman Drew in Sacramento when the bill to segregate a strip o Fresno territory to Kings county was under consideration. In the last case, as in the others, the cry is impudently false. Mayor Mott ed the fight in Oakland at the last primary campaign for the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, and was the regular Republican (organization) candidate for Mayor at the municipal election, being endorsed by the Democrats and the Municipal League. Nobody here was able to discern that the Southern Pacific took the slightest part or interest in the contest. Mr. Herrin had about as much to do with the county division fight in the Legislature as the man in the moon. It was a fight in which justice and fair play were on the side of the divisionists, who were led in the Senate by Senator Miller, a Democrat, and in the Assembly by Mr. McGuire, a Republican. Neither party politics nor the railroad interests were involved. So far as the Alameda election is concerned, the issue is equally devoid of political significance. Both the candidates for Mayor are staunch Republicans and citizens of acknowledged integrity and long residence. Both have served the city with fidelity and honor in the municipal council, and neither can be said to be particularly partial to the Southern Pacific or any other corporation. Mr. Noy, however, has always been loyal to the candidates of the Republican party, and this is an unpardonable offense in the eyes of the San Francisco Call, which regards party fidelity as a crime. But the people of Alameda know Mr. Noy; they have tried him, and they respect and trust him. The cry that he is unworthy because he has the friendship of men like Congressmen Knowland, Judge Ellsworth and P S. Teller should make his election certain Bawling "Herrin machine" at him is so clearly a mendacious political trick that sensible, right-thinking men should rebuke it Such indecent political methods ought to be frowned upon, and in this instance we are confident they will be. We know of nothing to Mr Forderer's discredit save the calumnie hu led at Mr. Noy in his behalf, and in justice to an old and valued citizen the malicious falsehoods should be stamped with popular disapproval at the polls.

Revision of Maritime War Laws.

The international maritime conference which has been in session during the winter in London has completed its revision of the international laws regulating naval warfare, defining the rights of neutral commerce and restricting seizures by belligerents.

During the Russian Japanese war some very irritating questions were raised regarding what constituted contraband of war and what merchandise carried by a neutral at sea was exempt from seizure. During the voyage of the Russian Baltic fleet to the Orient, Admiral Rojestvensky began to exercise the right of search of all neutral vessels he met on the way as soon as he passed through the Suez canal and entered the Red Sea, although ten thousand miles from the scene of war. The Russians also declared rice and other foodstuffs and cotton to be contraband of war and neutral vessels found, after search, carrying such merchandise in their cargoes, regardless of destination, subject to seizure in the Indian ocean and the waters of the Orient And where it was impossible for their warships to conduct such neutral vessels into a nearby port to test the validity of the seizure they arbitrarily destroyed them at sea. Protests from neutral nations were unavailing. The Russians shielded themselves behind technicalities which were sufficiently complex and perplexing to the neutral maritime powers concerned to hesitate about adopting any course of reprisal Besides, these seizures threatened to drag other naval powers into the conflict which was what Russia undoubtedly sought to bring about Most of the offenses charged up to Russian warships were directed against British bottoms with the expectancy that the British government would retaliate in a way which would justify France siding with Russia in accordance with the terms of the agreement existing between the two powers It was only through the strictest toleration and restraint that the Russian trap was avoided and the war was confined to the belligerents actually engaged in it

The international laws of maritime war agreed upon at the London conference divides merchandise carried in neutral bottoms on the high seas during time of war into three classifications, namely, absolute contraband, conditional contraband and not contraband Neutral vessels carrying absolute contraband are liable to seizure; so are such vessels having conditional contraband in their cargoes, where there is proof that it is intended for delivery to a belligerent. Non-contraband cargoes are non-seizable, no matter where they are intended to be discharged. In addition, the right to destroy a neutral vessel at sea carrying contraband of war is restricted exclusively to the point that if the attempt to conduct her to a proper port for condemnation by a prize court puts the safety of the warship which has made the seizure in jeopardy or interferes with the success of the operation in which she is engaged. There are also other features of the revised laws which remove the uncertainties surrounding those now in effect. Before the revision is made effective it will have to be approved by The Hague international peace court

When Champ Clark made his alliance with the Republican insurgents it did not occur to him that there might be insurrection on the Democratic side—that there might be men of his own party logically-minded enough to discern that what is euphemistically termed Cannonism is not altered by the political complexion of the men who apply it. As a matter of fact, the Republican insurgents and Democratic malcontents revolted against authority and party discipline; they are trying to throw off party government and assert the principle of the direct primary in Congress, a principle that destroys cohesion and makes every man a leader free from party obligation and he restraints imposed by the views of the majority of his party associates. Champ Clark encouraged rebellion in the Republican ranks, hoping that his party might profit by dissension in the opposition, and finds that the spirit of revolt spread among his own followers. He is grieved and surprised at what he terms treachery in his own camp. But he forgets that he was abetting treason in the Republican ranks expecting to profit by it. If he made terms with the Republican minority why should not his insurgent followers make terms with the Republican majority? Treason begets treason, and when a leader encourages it in the camp of the enemy he has no right to complain of it in his own

JOHN BULL'S NIGHTMARE. —CHICAGO DAILY NEWS.

The British-German Naval Scare.

Any public mention of the naval and military preparations which Germany is making throws the British people into a panic instantly. The debate last week in the House of Commons wherein the government practically confessed that Germany had caught it napping in its naval program has wrought them up into a high pitch of excitement. The disclosure officially made by the German government of what it is actually doing in the way of naval development has not restored public equanimity, although the list of warships on the stocks in the German dockyards and those that are to be laid down and constructed before the autumn of 1912 is given in detail. It shows that the German program will result in the production by the time named of thirteen battleships only and not seventeen as Reginald McKenna stated or twenty-one as ex-Premier Balfour asserted

Public reference to the growing strength of the German navy is to the British nation like shaking a red rag in the face of a bull. Its sensitiveness in this respect has been more acute since the possibilities of the invasion of Great Britain were exploited by German military experts and the Kaiser's impudent statements on the subject made in an authorized published interview which brought him into disfavor with his own subjects and exposed him to a flood of protests from all quarters and all classes in the empire. This kind of a panicky feeling in Britain was confined during the Napoleonic eras to France only. Then the fear of invasion from that quarter constantly possessed the British mind. The main strength of the home fleet was concentrated in the English channel and the fortifications along the southern coast at every vulnerable point were strengthened. Since German naval activities began, the scene of danger from invasion has been shifted from the English channel to the North sea and the defense of the east coast of the island has become the all absorbing subject of consideration. It has resulted in the mobilization of a great home defense fleet of over two hundred powerful warships under the command of Admiral Ray and a complete revision of the system of naval bases on the east coast and the adoption of places for quick concentration on the German coast.

The latest scare has had the effect also of inducing the British government to consent to a compromise in its naval construction program with the opposition whereby the naval estimates shall contain a provision for the construction of four Dreadnoughts and six armored cruisers of the first-class this year and leave the government at liberty to lay the keels of four other battleships of the Dreadnought type next year In accepting this compromise the Asquith cabinet saves itself from the possibility of a vote of censure being passed by the House and the necessity of appealing to the country.

A new aspect has been given to the proposal to establish free trade between the United States and the Philippines by the protest from Manila All the customs duties on imports into the Philippines go into the local revenue of the islands, and are applied to the schools, roads and other public enterprises. The loss of revenue from this source will seriously cripple the insular government unless provision is made to increase the revenue from other sources. Thus we see that every question has two sides. In this particular instance, it appears that those who have been sentimentally complaining of the injustice inflicted on the Filipinos by the present tariff law have neglected to inform themselves as to the reverse side o the case.

NEW YORK, March 22.—William J Connors chairman of the Democratic State Committee, returned to New York last night from Palm Beach Fla where he has been sojourning with Richard Croker, former chief of Tammany Hall, and announced that he would call a conference of county leaders to ascertain the sentiment toward the direct nomination bill, which is being pushed by Governor Hughes and most of his supporters. Until this meeting is held, Connors said he would be unable to state his position with regard to the meeting.

Sponges have almost been discarded from the modern bathroom on account of the difficulty of keeping them in a sanitary condition When they are used one should not be satisfied with giving them an occasional washing even in warm water, but they should be boiled once a week in water to which has been added a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder and rinsed through several clear warm waters Wash cloths should also be boiled in Gold Dust suds and thoroughly rinsed, sunned and ironed Those of thin linen crash are more desirable than heavy ones.

Discuss Wedding

At a meeting of the Asiatic Exclusion League yesterday a heated debate followed the proposal of Delegate [illegible] Misner of the Machinists Union that a set of resolutions condemning the wedding be adopted by the league The resolution offered is as follows

Whereas It has been publicly heralded that a young woman the daughter of a minister of the Gospel of California has announced her intention of marrying a native of Japan and

Whereas The laws of the State of California prohibit marriage between white persons and Orientals and

Whereas The intermarrying of white persons and Orientals is a thing to be deplored therefore be it

Resolved That the members of the Asiatic Exclusion League in meeting assembled do express themselves as opposed to the intermarriage of white persons and Orientals and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the parties interested and to the press of the country

The resolutions were held to be out of order by President O A Tveitmoe on the exception taken by Delegate Andrew Gallagher that the league would deviate from its province in officially recognizing the nuptials

There is no doubt as to our personal opinions of this unnatural alliance said Gallagher It is to be deplored that a daughter of California should lower herself to the level of marrying a Japanese house servant The girl I think is having sufficient trouble without our adding to it Let her marry him and I am certain that in a few years she will be one of the strongest advocates of Japanese exclusion

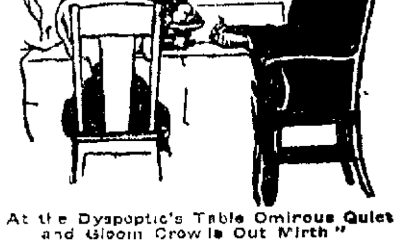
The Harmony Of Home

Does Not Mingle With or Emanate From The Table of Dyspepsia.

In the home meal time should awaken in all the inhabitants a peculiar harmony of joy which will make for the home the abiding place of interest and happiness

If one member at the dinner table is out of sorts its influence is felt and [illegible] Conversation [illegible] Devouring thoughts [illegible] and silence prevails.



"At the Dyspeptic's Table Ominous Quiet and Gloom Crowds Out Mirth"

All physicians agree that mirth and joy at meal time does much toward digestion Mirth tingles the whole nervous organism of man the cells wherein are stored all the digestive juices, empty their contents under the nerve stimulation and promote the highest degree of digestion

If gloom and discomfort prevail at table the reverse action obtains and meals become necessities not anticipated joys

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are little storehouses of digestion which mix with the stomach juices digest food stimulate the mucous membrane and its nerve structure give to the blood a great wealth of digestive fluids promote digestion and stays by the stomach until all its duties are complete

If dyspepsia sits at tables it makes the dining room a place of awe these tablets should be taken after meals and dyspepsia of a consequence flees

Duel Over Girl's Stocking; No One Hurt---Just Like a German Army Fight

SEATTLE, March 22.—Where knights of old broke their lances over a lady's glove Tony Roderick and Gus Alvas, Portuguese, emptied their revolvers at each other yesterday over a stocking once worn by pretty Minnie Whitney, the girl for whom each had professed his love.

As a result of their duel both modern knights are in the city jail nursing wounds, none having been inflicted with bullets, however, for the duel resolved itself into a plain rough and tumble fight.

Miss Whitney is suffering from an attack of measles. This illness, her lost stocking, and the love of Alvas and Roderick for the girl are the causes of the duel. The romance has been spoiled somewhat, however, by the fact that Patrolmen Scott White and Al Ryan are now trying to find something on the criminal statutes that will apply to the duelists.

According to the story told to the policemen by Miss Whitney Alvas seems to be in the wrong. Coming to this city from San Francisco where he is said to have used his knife freely in another affair of the heart Alvas found a job at Bremerton and also found Miss Whitney. He directed his attentions to her despite her evident dislike for him and he persisted after she had ordered him to leave her alone.

Hoodoo on Girl

Then, the cunning of the Latin appeared in Alvas. Surreptitiously obtaining a stocking which had been worn by Miss Whitney, he tied it in a knot and after certain motions with the hands and strange words he waved the stocking before her and cried:

"You shall fall sick and you shall not recover until I untie this knot or this stocking shall pass out of my possession."

Two days later the girl became ill with an attack of measles.

The hoodoo was working and Alvas assured her that it would remain until she consented to wed him. In other words he would loosen the knot in the stocking only when she consented to have the parson tie the nuptial knot for them.

Miss Whitney shares the superstitions of her people and the attack of measles became alarming. Tony Roderick, a fellow contractor with Alvas at Bremerton and a suitor for Minnie Whitney's hand was informed of the existence of Alvas' hoodoo. Minnie Whitney told Tony Roderick that not her illness but her stocking was the reason he must return to her before she would seriously treat his love protestations.

It resolved itself into a fight between Alvas and Roderick and the duel was inevitable. A story which the police are trying to verify is that the pair met in a boarding house yesterday morning and that Alvas opened fire on Roderick, emptying his pistol but failing to hit Roderick. Alvas' gun is considered a joke by the police. It is known as a "baby," a .22-caliber affair that can be hidden in the palm of the hand.

SENSATION PROMISED IN REMINGTON DIVORCE

NEW YORK, March 22.—Society is anticipating a pleasant bit of scandal in Philadelphia when the Remington divorce case comes up for public trial in the next term of court there. It was thought at the time of the separation of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hutt Remington that the affair had been thoroughly arranged privately, but it seems that Remington refuses to retire gracefully and in silence from the scene and insists on giving his version of the rift in the lute. Such a proceeding must be a severe blow to the staid and conservative idea of George C. Thomas, Mrs. Remington's father, to whom even the thought of divorce without any sensational accompaniments must be most repugnant, being as he is, a most devoted Anglican churchman.

The grounds advanced by Mrs. Remington are cruel and barbarous treatment and, as they were voiced in the preliminary papers some time ago we all know what they are and that they are sufficiently unusual to raise the affair to a veritable cause celebre.

The marriage was always looked upon as a sort of mesalliance for Remington is the son of Professor Joseph Remington, dean of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, whose drug store at Thirteenth and Walnut streets for years furnished the pills and plasters required by the aristocracy of the neighborhood, while the Thomases were on more than a broad road to great wealth through the connection of the head of the family with the Drexel banking establishment, where he is now one of the important factors, though they were not exactly prominent socially. Mr. Thomas, like many of the members of that firm, is a collector of pictures and has a very commendable lot of modern French examples. The selection of a son-in-law was not so fortunate as his selections of objets d'art.

NEWPORT FOUR MILLION
Have a Lively Night

NEWPORT.—Saturday night the Newport Four Million, as somebody put it, were real devilish. The Reggie Vanderbilts took a party to the houseboat, including the Payne Whitneys, Dorothy Bigelow, Dorothy Taylor, the Howard Brokaws, Harry Curtis, Larry Waterbury, Dennie Hare, Miss Devereux, Willie Stackpole and his sister, Mrs. Quincy Shaw, and all the other live wires, also Ralph Bloomer. Upon their return they engaged a band of negro minstrels for a private performance in the ballroom, and about every woman in the party did some stunt on the instruments, not forgetting the big drum. They were not molested and the noise only interfered with the bridge games in the cardroom. Mrs. Vanderbilt is looking much better than when at Newport last summer. She danced four consecutive numbers with Freeman Smith. Dennie Hare is the guest of the Vanderbilts. I saw Fred Paine with Ja Lalo one day, but understand he has gone back to Newport. Mrs. Vanderbilt is seen a great deal with Mrs. Paulding Fosdick.

Maud Allan's Art Brings Her Fortune in English Bookings

A Sketch of Miss Allan by Herself, Resting Between Dances. It Is by the Doctor's Orders That After Each of Her Performances She Lies in Bed for Two Hours.

Another of Miss Allan's Dances Inspired by Grieg, but in a Graver Key and Exceedingly Expressive.

One of Miss Allan's Captivating Dances, Inspired by Grieg's Peer Gynt Suite.

Maud Allan, the American dancer, with nimble feet whose genius in dancing has made her the world's celebrity, is more worshipped than ever in England. Her plans are for only a few weeks season in London and then she goes into the country with a weekly salary of such appalling magnitude that the mind boggles at the thought. Dramaticus, the critic of the London Graphic, says regarding Miss Allan:

"I have been to the Palace Theater again to fathom the mystery of Miss Allan's fascination, for there is no question about it she has become a cult among Londoners. It does not lie wholly in her dancing, for she is not a great dancer, scarcely even a good one. An old friend of mine who considers himself an authority even goes so far as to say that she cannot dance at all, but primarily she brings to music what the actor does for bring to the dramatist's written words. She brings an intelligent interpretation. She feels the part she dances.

The "Poetry of Motion"

Everyone who cannot think of anything else to say talks about the poetry of motion in connection with Miss Allan, and there is some excuse for the hackneyed phrase. She is not a beautiful woman, she has not even a beautiful figure, or like Trilby a beautiful foot, but she has got back to the old and sane Greek idea that dancing is not merely kicking your legs about, but is a beautifully timed rhythmic movement of the whole body. She is a considerable artist, but rather in graceful posing and posturing than in really dancing. She dances less with her legs than with her hands and arms and body. She does not try to astonish us with feats of agility, but to express the soul of music in pantomime. She acts music to you and acts it equally with her wonderfully changing face and her marvellously sinuous hands and arms.

August Belmont May Marry the Noted and Accomplisned Actress Eleanor Robson

NEW YORK.—Evidently, if all that I can hear is true, when August Belmont was dipped in the river of immortality, unlike Achilles the part that was untouched by it was his heart. That vulnerable organ undoubtedly has been touched by the withering shafts of Eleanor Robson's eyes, and the infatuation is so serious that the morning coffee in all the family breakfasts of the Belmont house is curdled over the prospect of a marriage. That Mr. Belmont is quite frantically demonstrating it by his devoted attentions to the young actress. While they were in England last summer it was noticed and commented upon everywhere and since their return to America the attachment has continued with unabated fervor.

The Belmont motor car is omnipresent at the stage door of the Lyceum Theater and their little repasts a deux at various restaurants have not escaped the prying eyes of quidnuncs.

That Mr. Belmont's admiration is reciprocated was plainly shown in Miss Robson's indefatigable attentions during his recent illness. She was a constant visitor at the hospital and her flowers were of the most beautiful and chosen with a more careful hand than one directed by mere friendship. There is not the slightest objection to Miss Robson by the Belmont family except that she is very young, and the sons and other relatives who have the conservation of a huge fortune among their interests naturally look upon the introduction of a young wife into the connection in the nature of a calamity.

However, where love is there is little consideration for ties of consanguinity, and it is hardly likely, if Mr. Belmont has decided to rob the stage of another of its favorites, that he will stop to take into account the ruffled feathers of his family. I hear that at the close of the theatrical season they will be in England again, and if the old house in Thirty-fourth street does not see a new mistress by next autumn, I shall lose all faith in the flight of straws on the prophetic wind.

Met Husband's Affinity Face to Face at Theater

NEW YORK, March —.—I witnessed a pretty little scene outside the Lyric Theater in Philadelphia the other evening which illustrated quite vividly the pleasant amenities the sweet Quaker City ladies are capable of exchanging, says Town Topics. A party consisting of two young matrons and their husbands, one a beauty famed for her face, her figure, her flirtations, her fortune and her docile husband; the other popular but less fortunately endowed by either nature or the fates. At the door they met face to face two other women.

Now it happened that one of these women had known the husband of the favorite of fortune, and she in turn knew of the acquaintance and as the other woman is equally good looking did not approve.

When they got within earshot the beauty made a remark to her companion and laughed—a fatal thing to do, for the other immediately launched with caustic acerbity: "There is Baron D—'s mistress." The poor beauty took on a color paler than is habitual and smiled a sickly smile, while the other continued: "She was in O— last summer while he was there and I also saw the letter she sent him in Paris asking him to visit her in her flat at ——." I dared listen no further, for inquisitive as I am I may not intrude when two such charming women begin to bandy facts.

To Keep a True Lent

Is this a fast, to keep
  The larder lean,
  And clean
From fat of veals and sheep?

Is it to quit the dish
  Of flesh, yet still
  To fill
The platter high with fish?

Is it to fast an hour,
  Or ragg'd to go,
  Or show
A downcast look and sour?

No; 'tis a fast to dole
  Thy sheaf of wheat
  And meat
Unto the hungry soul.

It is to fast from strife,
  From old debate
  And hate,
To circumcise thy life.

To show a heart grief-rent,
  To starve thy sin,
  Not bin;
And that's to keep thy Lent.

—George Herbert.

Young Girl and The Palm Beach Gossips

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 22.—A young girl who is now at Palm Beach succeeded in occupying the gossips with her devotion to a young matron who is about to secure a divorce. She is with her parents, who have plenty of money, good position, and live in the seven hundreds on the avenue. She was the constant companion of the young matron who left last week, and the late hours they kept and the round of pleasure that almost bordered on dissipation caused great alarm to the girl's mother, who breathes easier now that the giddy matron has departed. The night before she left the pair, with several admirers, were riding around in wheelchairs until one o'clock, and the affectionate good-byes they said would seem to indicate that the friendship is to be resumed upon the girl's return to town. However, what has caused most gossip is the unusual language indulged in by this lively young person, language which indicates that she is not a novice in the art of profanity.

"I Intend to Own New York Socially," Says Widow With $1,500,000 Income

NEW YORK.—Even though the means have the clouded skies that settled down over the affairs and aspirations of Mrs. Bill Leeds and her family some weeks ago been cleared up, there may be an armistice of some sort patched up between Mrs. Leeds' father, W. C. Stewart, and herself, but certain it is it has not extended to the remainder of the family who are still hoping, seemingly against hope, that the widow will come to her senses and re-establish them in that state of life which it pleased her with the assistance of her fortune to call them. Mrs. Leeds does not seem to be overburdened with the excellent quality of gratitude. She was as rich in promises as her late husband has left her in cash, but time, in assuaging her grief over her departed lord, seems also to have blotted out remembrance of the old Cleveland days when her stepmother stepped into the breach and supplied her with the means to go to Europe and escape the noisy gossip of her divorce from Worthington, says Town Topics. When the present Mrs. Stewart married Mrs. Leeds' father he held a somewhat responsible position with some sort of a financial establishment, though his rather uncertain ways compelled the family to be chary of too great dependence upon him. So when it was deemed advisable to send Nonnie abroad until the divorce storm blew over, Mrs. Stewart, who had a small fortune of her own, supplied the wherewithal.

Returns in Triumph

It was during this trip that she met Mr. Leeds and became engaged to him. Having taken such a rich plum from the tree of the world Nonnie's return home was something in the nature of a triumph and of course the family received her with open arms. Father, with such a glittering alliance in view, naturally could no longer continue to hold the place of a mere employe, so he became the gentleman of elegant leisure. As the plum had not been potted wholly, however, there were many preliminary expenses, including a trousseau, which were supplied out of Mrs. Stewart's modest possessions. After the wedding, as has been told, they all came to New York, where Mr. Leeds supplied them with an income of $17,000 a year, and though Mr. Stewart continued the life of pleasant ease things went tolerably well until the death of the family patron. Just before that unfortunate event, after he had come back from Europe in his last illness, Mr. Leeds in a serious talk with Mrs. Stewart told her that though he had not provided for her and her daughter by will he thoroughly appreciated all her goodness to Nonnie and had made her promise to take good care of the family after he was gone. In pursuance of this, after Mr. Leeds had passed away his widow told her stepmother at Newport, where the family had all gathered, that she would allow her $1000 a month for clothes and personal expenses and continue to stand good for the household bills. Mrs. Stewart was overcome by such generosity and protested that she did not require so much, but Mrs. Leeds insisted and the first month sent her a check for that amount.

Allowance Ceases

They returned to town and then came the end. The second month came and Mr. Stewart, for reasons best known to himself, suddenly decided that he would take up an independent abode and left the family apartment. And then it was that Mrs. Stewart found her credit discontinued at the various shops and the allowance ceased. There was no reason for Mr. Stewart's departure from home except that he preferred the gay haunts of the metropolis to the "quiet of domesticity." Letters to Mrs. Leeds elicited no response, and Mrs. Stewart, having spent her whole inheritance, found herself facing actual penury with clamorous tradesmen and threatening process servers haunting the doors. The truth finally came out that Mrs. Leeds had been led to believe that out of the big allowance she still made her all the bills had been paid, and that Mrs. Stewart in a perfect debauch of extravagance had gone on piling up more until her husband in desperation had left the family abode. This pleasant little illusion was promptly exploded by a friend of Mrs. Stewart's, who gathered up the whole stack of unsettled accounts and sent them to Mrs. Leeds. It was a bomb exploded in the camp.

Mrs. Leeds sent for her father and as they are both blessed with fiery temperaments there was a scene in which the last remnant of polite veneer of diplomacy was forgotten in insult. Mr. Stewart turned to his own resources and humbly begged his wife to take him back, to which she replied that as she had never sent him away and the doors were always open there was no reason why he ever should have stayed away. But Mrs. Leeds' anger did not abate, nor was the embargo on the allowances raised, which places the Stewarts in a most embarrassing and untenable position, the brunt of the hardship falling on Mrs. Stewart's shoulders. So serious is it that Mrs. Stewart [illegible] out to become a saleswoman in one of the big shops on the avenue where she was a former customer, all of which is pretty hard considering that the stepdaughter whom she shielded and cared for as her own has the small yearly income of $1 500 000.

Jealousy Is Charged

Friends of the family declare that it is not true that Mrs. Leeds has suddenly conceived an intense dislike for her stepmother, but that her feelings are all against her stepsister Lorna, whom she promised to introduce and give a social career, but of whom she is intensely jealous—a feeling that she has given vent to on more than one occasion, notably during a yachting trip a few years ago when there was a large party on board to dinner, and just as they were about to go to the table she put her arm around the girl and said: "I am so sorry there is no room for you, Lorn, so I have ordered your dinner served in your cabin."

That Mrs. Leeds will ever leave New York as has been hinted is not to be credited. She is devoted to it and according to her own declaration is determined to own it socially. It was on the last return from Europe with Mr. Leeds. He had gone on home while she remained to superintend the transfer of the baggage. As she looked out at the perspective of sky-line a friend said to her: "It is a wonderful city, isn't it, Nonnie?"

"Yes," she replied, "and I intend to own it—socially."

For a woman with such unbounded aspirations and a—former life I should think it would not be pleasant to feel that one's family was in need and one's stepmother a shop woman—especially with $1 500 000 coming in every year.

HIS CONFESSION

She's such a dainty winsome bit
  Of feminine humanity,
Entirely unaware of it
  And wholly free from vanity!
I lost my heart when first we met
  She was so sweet and squeezable—
(I own I haven't done it yet
  It never seemed quite feasible).

But still she rules within my heart,
  And—strange peculiarity—
She binds me to her by an art
  Without familiarity.
I grow to love her more and more,
  Though I'm a husband dutiful
And pray, why not? She's only four
  And doesn't know she's beautiful.

The Peach Basket Hat Sent Milliners On Strike--Drew the Line at Coal Scuttles

NEW YORK.—Woman's headgear has been shifting so rapidly from wash bowls to flower pots to coal scuttles to umbrellas and finally to the latest enormous inverted peach basket effect that the tension of keeping pace with the varying styles was bound to tell somewhere.

The storm preceded by distinct mutterings broke with much fury at 534 Broadway when forty girls whose nimble fingers had sewed ribbons, buckles, cabochons and silks on them all from the Merry Widow down, threw fifty peach baskets half finished on the floor, told the proprietor, N. Resnikoff, that "peaches were ripe" and walked out.

Unionized Against the 'Peach'

They were mostly trimmers, and at once they collected in a hall on East Broadway and planned to continue the process with reference to N. Resnikoff. To cover an exciting period it may be stated that they were unionized, marched in force to the "boss's" establishment early today, repeated their demand of a raise of 25 cents a dozen for making the new peach basket style and lo, N. Resnikoff welcomed them all back like prodigals.

It was a complete victory for the strikers. Besides it lent the peach hat some class. Other styles were made without strikes.

Giving the strike and its possible consequences in other shops where the peaches are grown and trimmed with garden implements such as hoes, rakes, sprinklers and lawn mowers, its due, it must be said that the Millinery Workers' Industrial Union No. 53 broke a record for speedily ending a strike.

It was late yesterday afternoon when Mr. Resnikoff pranced into the workroom [illegible] holding in his arms a gigantic peach basket hat. It was wonderfully romantic with buckles, bands, braids, cabochons, feathers and other assets of up-to-date millinery horticulture. The forty girls dropped their needles and gazed. Such a hat!

Drew the Line at Scuttles

They were willing to accept $2.25 a dozen for making all the flower pots, umbrellas, coal scuttles or dishpans in America, but that inverted peach thing! Not on N. Resnikoff's natural—! They knew first there was general disapproval of the style; it might be said that the style was ever knocked.

"Girls, it's time to call the merchant person," one bright little East Broadway girl named Estelle Kitchenoff, piped. Estelle knew not what she did. She was half joking. "Put out, out," what a fire followed. Down went the hat—duplicates of a half peach basket and dishpan creation which was what the girls today call it—in the nimble-fingered young milliners.

"We want 25 cents more a dozen for those young tenement house bonnets," said Rachel Goldman, the fastest worker in the shop.

"You get five minutes to say 'yes.' If not, all of us girls strike," added Sadie Sancowski, the stateliest sewer.

"I know my business," protested N. Resnikoff. "I know what I want, you know what you want. I know what society on Broadway above Thirty-fourth street wants, don't I? You do, do you? No, no, isn't it? Yes. Well, then, clear out, see."

The exodus headed for East Broadway. The union initiated the peach basket strikers and today they returned to N. Resnikoff's shop door. He received a delegation of two. The strikers blocked the hall. All had the exhortations at the union meeting impressed and were ready to fight the matter out if it took all summer.

Down came the delegation in two minutes, [illegible] by anxious faces.

"We win, girls, we get the 25 cents union recognized, and he wants us back right away. Hurrah," hurrah!

A policeman, two blocks away, thought a fire was under way and hustled to the floor. There were more cheers and the strike was off. All the strikers are now grinding out peach basket hats in Resnikoff's place. He says the girls make good wages, are kindly treated, and have done harder work for less money. He surmises that the style got the goats of his forty girls.

Why Women Grow Old

Women condemned to the steam-heated life of our American cities, fed on the too-abundant meat diet, which is our bane, breathing and sleeping wrongly, suffering the lack of physical exercise, which oddly enough is the result of our so-called busy lives, continue to age and to lose suppleness, grace, vigor and natural charm, says Kate Masterson in Collier's. All the wonder-working grease and bleaching aids in the world will not do more than achieve a surface smoothness that sometimes in women past middle age creates an almost uncanny effect of mere flesh culture covering a hopeless posture of youthfulness.

THE CALL

Love comes laughing up the valleys,
  Hand in hand with boyden Spring;
All the Flower-People nodding,
  All the Feathered Folk a-wing.

'Higher! Higher!' call the thrushes;
  'Wider! Freer!' breathe the trees;
And the purple mountains beckon
  Upward to their mysteries.

Always farther leagues to wander,
  Peak to peak and slope to slope;
Lips to sing and feet to follow,
  Eyes to dream and heart to hope.

Tarry? Nay, but who can tarry?
  All the world is on the wing.
Loves comes laughing up the valleys,
  Hang in hand with boyden Spring.

Ambassador Bryce Greeted by Dr. Wheeler at Berkeley

TO BE 10 DAYS IN COLLEGE TOWN

British Consul Accompanies Distinguished Visitor From San Jose

TRAVELS IN PRIVATE CAR WITH TWO SERVANTS

Diplomat to Visit Yosemite Valley Before His Return to East

BERKELEY, March 22.—For a man with the prefix Right Honorable and a long string of titles and honors trailing in the rear, James Bryce, the British ambassador, travels simply enough. As the representative of the Court of St. James to the United States and a statesman eminent in the policies of England for a quarter of a century, the distinguished foreigner slipped into Berkeley shortly after noon in the most democratic manner.

There were no bands to meet him, no throng of curiosity seekers to take his measure. True enough, he brought his private car with him, but private cars are as common these days as automobiles and its travel along Shattuck avenue excited not even passing attention. And when there stepped from the back steps a small, elderly, well-preserved gentleman with a domestic looking woman of about the same age, the only greeting to be extended was by President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the State University and the Rev. J. K. McLean, president of the Pacific Theological Seminary. The ambassador was accompanied by Walter Hearn, the British consul at San Francisco, who joined him this morning in San Jose and accompanied him by way of Niles and the Oakland mole to Berkeley.

Have Two Servants

The ambassador and Mrs. Bryce, accompanied by two servants, entered a waiting automobile and, accompanied by President Wheeler, started for Cloyne Court, where apartments have been reserved for his party for the next ten days. The greetings at the depot were formal and brief. The waiting newspapermen were informed that a time would be set later in the day for "interviews" and that the correspondents would be received in a body.

For three days the Ambassador has been experiencing Washington weather, that is cold, rainy and changeable temperature with a disposition for pneumonia and rheumatism, but he seemed to be in good health and apparently has enjoyed his visit thus far.

It has been some years since the eminent Englishman was in California and he is known to be anxious to note the changes and evidences of progress. These, of course, have been visible ever since he arrived at Los Angeles three days ago. On the way from San Jose this morning he noted with pleasure the fields and orchards decked in their spring garb and expressed his appreciation to Consul Hearn.

Series of Lectures

The Ambassador is not a talkative man according to his reputation, notwithstanding his fame and industry as a writer and an author, but his time in Berkeley will be largely taken up with public addresses, while the social program will be limited to a reception in Hearst Hall tomorrow afternoon, a dinner by the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco on Wednesday evening and a dinner by the British residents of the bay region in San Francisco Saturday night. Between times there will be talking, but of the public order from the rostrum.

Primarily Ambassador Bryce comes to California to deliver the course of five lectures known as the [illegible] Earl course, at the Pacific Theological Seminary. Incidentally he is to be the chief speaker at the Charter Day exercises at the University, which are scheduled for the Greek Theater at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. In case the weather is stormy the program will be interpreted in Harmon Gymnasium. At noon he will be entertained at the Faculty Club by the faculty of the University. The reception to the visitor and Mrs. Bryce will begin at Hearst Hall at 4 o'clock. The function will consume two hours and admission will be by card only over the signature of President Wheeler. Nearly 300 invitations have been issued to the most notable people of the State.

Earl Lectures

The Earl lectures of the Pacific Theological Seminary will treat of the general subject of ethics and will, through the courtesy of the board of regents of the State University, be delivered in Hearst hall. They will be heard in the evening, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock, and the public will be admitted. The first lecture will be delivered Thursday evening, the subject being "Relations of Ethics and Religion Before the Appearance of Christianity."

The dates of the other lectures are:

March 26th—"Influence of Christianity on the Relations of Ethics and Religion."

March [illegible]th—"Tendencies Inducing a Divergence of Ethics and Religion During the Middle Ages."

March 1st—"Application of Ethical and Religious Standards to Some Modern Social and Economic Problems."

April 1st—"Application of Ethical and Religious Standards to Some Political and Internal Problems."

On Saturday morning the Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin I. Wheeler and some members of the faculty, will make a flying visit to Mount Hamilton and the Lick Observatory and will be the guests of Director Campbell of the big astronomical institution over Sunday.

To Visit Yosemite

The Ambassador will leave for the East Friday morning, April 2, going by way of Yosemite Valley, where two or three days will be spent.

Especial interest attaches to the ambassador's visit because of the prominence given to California and San Francisco in his famous history, "The American Commonwealth." It is probable that before he leaves the State he will make some public utterances on some of the questions that have arisen since the publication of that work, notably the relations of the United States and Japan and the new economic problems arising with the development of the commerce between this coast and Asia. He has not been prone to venturing opinions on questions affecting this government since coming to Washington in 1907 and it is said that some criticisms were directed against him by former President Roosevelt for his expressions on the Oklahoma constitution.

Notes Changes

In the course of an interview in Monterey last night the visitor said:

"I have an especial interest in California and Californians and I am very anxious to observe the changes that have taken place since my last visit to and around San Francisco.

"I shall have no hesitation in giving any impressions changed conditions may make on me, and I shall probably have a great many questions to ask in return. I believe in the exchange of views and welcome discussion on anything but politics. That, of course, is an interdicted subject with me. I never discuss politics."

EDNA CLARK AND MOTHER ON WAY EAST

Departure Has Nothing to do With Rev. Young's Career, is Statement

GOES TO CHICAGO TO ATTEND ART SCHOOL

Bishop Nichols to Declare S. F. Rector No Longer a Churchman

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Edna Clark, the pretty art student of Alameda, whose sudden disappearance under mysterious circumstances linked her name with that of Rev. Father T. [illegible] Young, former rector of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, left this morning on the Overland Limited with her mother, Mrs. Anita Mack, for Boston, where the young girl will attend a course at the Boston Art School.

Her departure at this time, when the confession of Young is alleged to have been placed in the hands of Bishop William Ford Nichols, is claimed by an intimate friend of the family to be merely coincidental.

No Relation

"There is no relation whatever with Miss Clark's departure for the East at this time and the confession alleged to have been made by Young," stated the friend. "The trip has been contemplated for some time, and as the school term is to commence on March 24 the departure today is timed to the moment."

Father Young, who rumor had it was connected with the disappearance of Miss Clark, was taken before Bishop Nichols at that time to explain the accusations and also many others which had piled up against him. Yesterday he is said to have been asked to choose seven friends to fill in a jury of fourteen to try him. Young, rather than do this, it is stated, confessed to wrong doings charged against him with the exception of embezzling the church funds.

Bishop Nichols will issue a decree within a few days declaring Young no longer a member of the Episcopal priesthood. In return Young, it is hinted, will file suit against the church trustees for back pay.

INJUNCTION TO STOP RECALL IN COURT

Fight for Electing Mayor to Replace Harper is Reaching Crisis

BATTLE FACTIONAL; NO PARTY LINES DRAWN

Special Grand Jury Inquires Into Charges of Graft Among Officials

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—The much disturbed municipal situation reached another crisis this morning when the application for an injunction restraining the City Council and other city departments from proceeding with the recall election for the successor to ex-Mayor Harper, set for March 26, came up in Judge Bordwell's division of the Superior Court. An extensive array of counsel appeared for both sides, City Attorney Leslie Hewitt appearing in person to represent the various city officials sought to be enjoined and to resist the effort to annul the recall election. The petitioners assert as their reason for asking the annulment of the election that the resignation of former Mayor Harper, against whom the recall was directed, removed the necessity for the recall and invalidated the election.

No Party Lines in Fight

In the [illegible] Wm. D. Stephens [illegible] Mayor [illegible] appointment of the City Council will hold office until [illegible]. Should the recall [illegible] and their candidate, George Alexander, be elected Mayor on March 26, it is stated that an effort to oust him from taking his seat will be made and the whole matter, involving even the constitutionality of the recall measure, be carried to the Superior Court. The fight is a factional one in which no party lines are drawn. Both Stephen and Alexander are Republican. Mayor Stephens insists that he [illegible] to hold the office [illegible] the March [illegible] and [illegible] the election of Alexander [illegible] largely depends upon personal grounds.

Special Grand Jury Convenes

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—The special grand jury convened again today after adjournment from last Friday and at once resumed the inquiry into the graft charges against various individuals connected with the late administration of Mayor Arthur C. Harper and [illegible] owners [illegible] Mayor Harper [illegible] or tomorrow and interesting developments before the end of the week are looked for. The identity of the individual against whom the indictment was so hastily returned last Friday has not been disclosed and the bench warrant for his arrest has not been served. It is now thought positively to be directed against Nick Oswald, the so-called King of the Tenderloin, who fled the city [illegible] of the convening of the grand jury. [illegible]

Officials Guard Exits to City in Efforts to Take Prominent Young Man

SAN JOSE, March 22.—Taking advantage of his wife's absence from the room, [illegible], a prominent young man of San Jose, yesterday seized his three-year-old daughter, Manelle, carried her from her mother's house, sprang into a waiting carriage and drove away.

The frightened child's screams for her mother attracted the attention of neighbors and when Mrs. Darison in frantic appeal called to them for assistance a score of men and women rushed to the street and joined her in a fruitless pursuit.

Hunt in Vain

Despite the boldness of the kidnaping and the fact that Darison drove away in daylight in a fashionable residence district, no trace of him has been discovered. The sheriff's office is guarding every highway leading from the city and all outgoing trains are being watched. It is believed that Darison is hiding somewhere within the city.

Darison will have to face a charge of kidnaping if he is apprehended. The custody of the two children was awarded the mother when she obtained a divorce [illegible] months ago. Darison obtained the privilege of seeing his children once a week and it was while taking advantage of this that he put his kidnaping plan into execution.

Darison has been employed at Agnew by the Western Distilling Company. He was married to Alice Hulliett, long a favorite in San Jose society, in [illegible] four years ago while she was [illegible] with her mother. They came to San Jose [illegible] married life was not happy and Mrs. Darison in her divorce complaint charged her husband with cruelty. It is said that Darison told a friend recently that if he could get possession of his little girl he would take her to his old home in Bordeaux.

MINT DIRECTOR RETURNS FROM WASHINGTON

Frank Leach to Let Contract for $50,000 Electric Power Plant

COUNTRY AWAITS NEW REVISION OF TARIFF

Declares Prosperity Sure to Return Upon Passage of Measure in Congress

Director of Mints Frank A. Leach arrived from Washington Saturday afternoon and is at his home, 541 Hobart street, this city. In speaking of his visit to his home city and the general mint situation, Mr. Leach said:

"It is good to be in California, although my present visit is principally on account of official business. One of the chief objects of my coming here at this time is to attend to the letting of contracts for the installation of an electric power plant in the San Francisco Mint. The plans are about completed and the letting of contracts is to follow immediately. Altogether this betterment in the Mint will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Independent Power Plant

"After the great fire the Mint operations were often interrupted because of the unsettled conditions of the power plants from which was obtained power. Now we propose to be independent and have an electric power plant in the Mint itself. However, if it develops later that we can buy power cheaper than we can install it we may do so."

Director Leach's attention was called to rumors of an impending reduction in the force in the San Francisco Mint, following the completion of coinage of Filipino silver. He said:

"I do not understand that the coinage of Filipino silver will cease in the near future, but when it does it follows that a reduction in the force of employes will occur, unless other conditions arise requiring their retention. Congress makes regular appropriations for the maintenance of the Mints of the country, including the regular forces of employes.

Coin Nickels Enough in Week

"This Filipino coinage is paid for by the Filipino Government, and from the earnings thus made are paid the salaries of the extra employes at the Mint. The suggestion that nickels might be coined at the San Francisco Mint and thus provide employment for the large force now there, is disposed of by the fact that in one week nickels enough could be coined to supply the Pacific coast for years."

Regarding general Mint conditions, Leach said that all the Mints are operating about as usual, with the exception of that at New Orleans, which is doing little owing to the lack of demand of late for subsidiary silver coins. He explained this by saying:

Cease Buying Silver Bullion

"During the years preceding the financial stringency of November, 1907, there was a gradual increase in the call for subsidiary silver coin—half-dollars, quarters and dimes. In those years we were buying silver bullion. After the so-called panic this subsidiary silver began to return to us, some of it in December and a lot of it in January, 1908. We then had about $24,000,000 on hand and ceased to coin silver for a while. Later there was a call for more silver, but last fall the demand slackened and we ceased to buy bullion.

"At present the feeling through all circles in the East and Middle West, as I find it, is that the country is going to resume its prosperous condition and business just as soon as the tariff bill is passed. There is no lack of confidence, but the importer does not know what he should import, the buyer does not know what he should buy and the manufacturer does not know what he should manufacture until tariff charges are fixed. It is the impression in Washington that the tariff bill will be hurried through Congress. It is also the general impression everywhere that I have recently been that the Taft administration is to be grand success."

FILIPINOS TAKE UP TARIFF MATTERS

Do Not Say Many of Them Want Free Trade With the United States

MANILA, March 22.—The Philippines Assembly is considering informally the tariff legislation now pending in Washington. It is planned to take up the question tomorrow and embody the views of the Assembly in a set of resolutions which will be forwarded to the Filipino representatives in Washington.

It is expected that these proposed resolutions will oppose any action of Congress tending in any way to alter the trade relations between the Philippines and the United States. It is manifest that a majority of the members of the Assembly fear that closer trade relations will lead to closer political relations, which will interfere with the ultimate independence of the islands.

They also say that the losses to island revenue by free trade would end the financial independence of the insular government and compel it to appeal to be placed under the direct control of Congress, thus lessening the Assembly's power in insular affairs.

AS RESTAURANT FIGHT LOOKS TO A LABOR MAN

Editor TRIBUNE: The Cooks and Waiters Union of which I am a member are having some trouble with Mr. Fox, the Cafetera man on Eleventh street between Washington and Clay. On his behalf Mr. Fox is catering to the sympathy of the public by decorating the front of his place with bunting and displaying the Star-Spangled Banner in the window and also a large lithograph cut of Uncle Sam reading the constitution. As a native American I take exceptions to the manner the flag is being used in this controversy. It is being used in a sense as a commercial ad and to cast reflection on the patriotism of others. Mr. Fox has been displaying to the public they see his side of the story. If you will extend the courtesy by publishing the article enclosed the public can get another view of the situation. I have made as brief a statement as possible and hope it will not be asking too much and will be pleased to see the article in your paper this evening.

YELLOW PERIL IS ALL BIG MYTH

So Says Benjamin Fay Mills in Prelude to Sermon at Fellowship Meeting

Benjamin Fay Mills gave a short prelude yesterday afternoon on "The Yellow Peril" before his sermon at the regular Fellowship meeting in Pythian Castle. The topic of his sermon was "The Unification of the World." His prelude yesterday was the first of a series of comments on Burning Topics to be given in five-minute talks at the commencement of the meeting each Sunday. In speaking of "The Yellow Peril," Mr. Mills said in part:

"The Yellow Peril is the alleged evil from the overflow of the people from Asia into the United States in such numbers as to harmfully affect our political institutions, our economic prosperity and our moral and social advancement.

"Hitherto America has spelled opportunity for the poor and oppressed of the world.

Said the Genius of these States—
Build me no Continent pen,
But let my doors swing wide
For all the sons of men.

"Recently we have been creating barriers against the need, masses of Europe and low race prejudices is invoked to build a wall heaven high against the coming of the Chinese, the Japanese and the Hindoo.

"I should think one of even moderate moral development would see something pathetically grand in this possibility of here demonstrating the true unity of humanity, all these wandering children to at last show that their bond of union is greater than their dissimilarities.

Family Kinship

"At first men recognized not even family kinship. Then they learned the lesson of the unity of the family, then of the tribe, then of the nation, then of the race and now they are being called to recognize the fundamental relationship of all men.

"I cannot today point out all the ways by which this may be accomplished by our nation but if we truly accepted the principle of the Brotherhood of Man which all religious believers and most so-called infidels profess to believe we would now see the last of this virulent race prejudice and would find our practical problems easy of solution.

"I believe none of the gloomy prognostications about the Yellow Peril.

"Every political peril would be obviated if we really welcomed these strangers and if the labor unions received them on equal terms.

"Every political peril would be obviated if we taught them to love Fraternity, Equality and Liberty by our exemplification of these principles. Socially and morally some of their customs seem immoral to some of us but so do some of our customs to some of them and we have as much to learn from them as they from us.

Mostly Our Ignorance

"The real Yellow Peril consists in our ignorance, prejudice, jealousy, greed and general selfishness and not in being brotherly to our Asiatic brothers.

"It consists in our own spiritual danger if we deny to these others what our ancestors eagerly sought for themselves.

"It is a peril of the failure to seize our divine opportunity which with the demonstration of national spiritual blindness and incarnate selfishness would cause us to follow Egypt and Babylon and Judaea and Rome and Greece along the road to national perdition. It is the peril of idealizing [illegible] rather than Pentecost.

"These are the only sort of perils that our beloved Columbia has need to fear."

Mr. Mills' topic for next Sunday's prelude will be "Boosting Oakland."

HE HAS APPEALED TO DIST. ATTY. DONAHUE

The following has been sent to District Attorney Donahue: W. H. Donahue, Esq., District Attorney, etc. My Dear Sir: I presume that you have seen an article printed in the Call of yesterday (Sunday) in regard to a woman named Van Dieling or, as the Call has it, Van Diem.

To formally demand an official investigation of the matter so far as the published report reflects upon me would be an insinuation on my part that you needed advice as to how your office should be run. I content myself at this time therefore with saying that I shall welcome the most rigid inquiry which may be set on foot by your office either through your own staff or by its being laid before the grand jury (which would be more satisfactory to me) regarding all actions which are reputed as having taken place in this county.

All purported statements or admissions by me as set forth by the Call in issue of Sunday and also of this morning are absolutely and unqualifiedly false and were known by the Call to be false and faked when printed.

Not as printed in the Call this morning will I be interviewed or interrogated by any detective from San Francisco or anywhere else or by any other person or representative except under your instructions.

I gave the story so far as I know it to the Examiner last evening and shall have nothing further to say upon the matter except upon the request of your office or the grand jury of this county.

I expect to be in Alameda all of today and at my San Francisco office 210 Grant building, Tuesday.

The Alameda Times-Star and the Oakland TRIBUNE are furnished copies of this letter for use if desired by them.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) HOWARD K. JAMES.

DR. ELIOT WILL BE GIVEN CHANCE TO SUCCEED REID

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Former President Eliot of Harvard University will probably be tendered the post of Ambassador to England by President Taft.

As yet it is not known whether Dr. Eliot will accept the offer but it is very much desired by both the President and Secretary Knox. The tender will be made next week when the former college man comes here to attend a Harvard function.

It is Dr. Eliot's lack of fortune that may perhaps stand in the way of his accepting the post. It is understood that the retiring President of Harvard has no private means and the salary paid by this government to its Ambassador in London is only $17,500 a year.

AMERICAN BEAUTY WINS ALL LONDON

Margarette Drexel Said to Have Refused Hand of Sir Charles Hartopp

MISS MARGARETTE DREXEL.

A recent cablegram from London announces the great popularity of Miss Margarette Drexel, the daughter of Anthony J. Drexel of Philadelphia. She has created a furore with her beauty and charm of manner. She has several times been reported engaged to men of title.

The latest rumor is that the girl has refused Sir Charles Hartopp. As he is fifty years of age it is said that Mr. Drexel would not consent to the alliance. Sir Charles is a close friend of the family and is now cruising on the Mediterranean with Mr. Drexel in the latter's yacht. Mrs. and Miss Drexel remained in London [illegible] Cannes. Sir Charles Hartopp [illegible] wife some time ago and she subsequently married Earl Cowley.

NEW ACTRESS AT YE LIBERTY TONIGHT

Miss Mulkins, New York Girl, to Make Oakland Debut in "Merely Mary Ann"

"The College Widow" concluded its successful run at the Liberty last evening and for the week commencing tonight the attraction will be "Merely Mary Ann," Israel Zangwill's dainty comedy in which Eleanor Robson won international fame. The Liberty's production of this piece is important because it will mark the first time the play has been offered here at less than [illegible] and it will also give to Oakland [illegible] Miss Katharine Mulkins, a young actress that Manager Bishop has brought direct from New York City to play the ingenue roles of his company.

"Merely Mary Ann" deals with the fate of a little English slavey who falls in love with a young and talented but very poor composer, Lancelot, one of the boarders at the cheap lodging house where she is employed.

Plot of Play

Mary Ann afterward falls heir to a fortune left her by an uncle who has struck oil in America and is then comes [illegible] in the end all works [illegible] the play ends happily with their marriage. The simple story has been wonderfully worked out in the play by the brilliant English author and the success it has achieved both in this country and England is proof of the fact.

Miss Mulkins has [illegible] Mary Ann a splendid part for her to make her debut here in and Lancelot Stevens [illegible] the character of the composer. They will be supported by a cast which will include Helene Lackaye, Lillian Elliott, Georgie Cooper, Georgie Knowlton, Margot Merriam, George Friend, Henry Shumer, George Webster, [illegible] Dennison, Walter Catlett and several others and the scenic effects at the Liberty will be adequate to the demands of the play.

TAKE REVOLVER FROM SLEEPER

Ransack House While Owner and Family Slumber on Peacefully

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—While the family of W. T. Little of 1317 McAllister street was asleep last night two burglars with the aid of a jimmy pried open a bedroom window in the apartment in which the head of the family slept and effected an entrance to the house.

So quietly did the house wreckers work that none of the occupants awakened despite the fact that every room was entered and ransacked. Besides a few trinkets and coin the thieves took a loaded revolver and belt filled with cartridges from Little's room. The loot is valued at about $100. Detectives Driscoll and McQuaide are working on the case.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS

Any chronic ulcer shows an unhealthy and impure condition of the blood. It is a diseased condition of the flesh at that particular spot, caused and kept inflamed and irritated by a continual discharge into it, of unhealthy matter from the circulation. No treatment can have any curative effect except a medicine which will renovate the blood and entirely remove the cause. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., are sometimes helpful in reducing inflammation, cleansing the ulcer, or perhaps lessening the discharge, but such applications do not reach the blood where the disease germs are located and can never effect a cure. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation, drives out all impurities and morbid matter, and by nourishing the flesh with rich pure blood causes the place to heal naturally and permanently. S. S. S. does not make a surface cure, but by beginning at the bottom, and rebuilding broken-down tissue, and supplying healthful, healing qualities to the blood, causes the place to fill in with new, firm flesh, while it steadily but surely effects a permanent cure. The ulcer can not exist when the blood is pure, and S. S. S. will thoroughly purify the blood. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

DEBATE ENDS IN DELEGATES OF TEAMS COMING TO TERMS

(By HERMAN F. BUDDE.)

AFTER three hour of strenuous debate in the sporting room of THE TRIBUN yesterday afternoon, in which both sides threw up intren ment afte entrenchment of formidable arguments to secure the most strategic positions, and enlivened at times by heated attac and counter-attacks, Manager Jack Thornton, Captain Albert F lder and Archies Hood, left end, representing the Vallejo Wing d V, and Ben Green and Quarter-back W. Moir, representing the Century A hletic Club eleven, came to terms and agreed that the g ne which for once and for all would decide the amateur state cha pionship for the year 1908 in football would be played a week from ext Sunday, April 4th, in Vallejo at 3 o'clock at the Association Par which is three miles from the town.

$100 Forfeit Posted

Twice during the confere e there was a deadlock and the chances coming together on a working basis emed as remote as the sun from the rth, but by clever diplomatic work the rough edges were made smooth and suf dent concessions were allowed making n agreement possible. Only after Vallejo swered with an emphatic "No," that n Francisco would not be the scene of the gridiron battle, did the Century men even condescend to think of Vallejo the proper place. It was objected, o, and seriously, on the ground that io local men were afraid of receiving l treatment there, but upon the assuran of Manager Thornton that $100 forfeit w ld be posted with the sporting editor of THE TRIBUNE as a guarantee that re would be no molding or rough-hous g by either the spectators during the g ne or by the players afterward, and matter of good or ill treatment to be ecided at his discretion, Green and Moi finally consented to the proposition of making Vallejo the battleground.

Object to San Francisco

Outside of San Francisco, apa received important recognition, but the idea of holding the struggle there as discarded when it was discovered th the baseball season opened the same day at it thought best to pull off the cont . Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda we not considered at all.

In addition to the forfeit money before playing at Vallejo, Green d manded many other stipulations which re carefully looked at from every angle and then before accepted, but in the m a little opposition was shown them.

Some of the Terms

Vallejo agreed to guar tee the expenses of twenty players the Century Club and to divide the ate receipts equally after all the expen s have been paid.

The Oaklanders intend to eave here on the 9 o'clock boat, San Fra cisco at 9:45, and expect to arrive in V lejo at noon, where they will be met by Vallejo delegation and the Mare Islan station band. While no money has been osted by the Century men that they will ut in an appearance on the date set r the game a verbal guarantee was en that they would, indicating besides an admission of defeat and inferiority to the Vallejos if they did not. Efforts will be made to secure a special ferry boat for the occasion capable of accommodating what fans and rooters expect to accompany the Century eleven.

Another one of the terms entered into the memorandum of agreement is that the Vallejos will hold the crowd at the game fifty feet from the side lines. This precaution will be taken to prevent any interference during the progress of the game or any undue violence upon the Century players. The matter of officials was also thoroughly gone into and the names of Reed or Belmont as referee, Steve Coach Fair of the Fremont high or Coache Fair of the Fremont high or Coach Middleton of Lick as umpire were passed upon without dissent. No action was taken in the selection of line men and time keepers.

The halves will be thirty-five minutes.

Play Each Other First Time

That both parties reached an agreement created no end of surprise in local circles. Never before have they played each other or been able to come to terms. Besides, for days both have been making acrimonious charges against the other and no end of personal animosity and bitter feeling grew up as the result, but this was all wiped away in yesterday's conference.

Over and above all this, both teams disbanded in the early part of January and now reorganization will have to be effected, and daily practice and training gone through. New signals will have to be learned, the forgotten plays, trick punts and forward passes resurrected.

It will no doubt be a fitting aftermath to the many styles of football exhibitions, soccer, Rugby and American, that have been seen by the public within the last six months. That it will eclipse them all in excitement, keen playing and importance upon the future of the game in California goes without saying. In consenting to play the Century made a concession which is entirely new to them, that of playing on Sunday.

The Century team averages 163 pounds, while the Vallejos are fifteen pounds lighter. The latter will be coached by Gosher, a former Reliance Club man, and at one time a member of the California All Star team.

KAUFMAN MATCHED TO MEET SANDY FERGUSON AT BOSTON

Louie Blot Returns From Los Angeles and Says That Papke Won From Flynn; Pictures of Burns-Johnson Scrap.

By EDDIE SMITH.

ACCORDING to a telegram that Louie Blot received from Al Kaufman this morning the big Californian has been matched to meet Sandy Ferguson at Boston on April 6th, and the $10,000 side bet money that the big fellow had up as a forfeit for the Jeffries match has been taken in part by friends of the sorrel-topped fighter from Boston.

Ferguson came back to life the other night when he trimmed Al Kubick in short time. The form shown by Ferguson caused his friends to gather together the money and the offer was made to Kaufman, who was showing at the Miner Theater in New York.

Kaufman and Delaney immediately accepted the offer and notified the management that they would close and leave for Boston as soon as possible.

Saw Papke-Flynn Contest

Blot has just returned from Los Angeles where he, with Charlie Lercari and several other San Francisco sporting men, went to witness the Papke-Flynn contest. Blot says that Papke won as far as one could throw a stick and that it is impossible for him to conceive how the newspaper men could be so influenced by the howls from the gallery. Blot says that Papke left the ring without a mark on him and that Flynn had to be sewed up by a physician.

"Barring the wild rushes that Flynn made, carring Billy to the ropes, he had all the best of the going. He outpointed and outpunched the fireman and how the paper men of Los Angeles can allow themselves to be influenced by the spectacular rushes of this fellow Flynn is more than I can understand. Flynn rushed but did no punching or boxing and the gallery simply won for him because they liked his rushing style."

That is the way that Blot sizes up the result in the south and as he has been considered a fair judge of pugilism, his opinion is worth something.

Johnson-Burns Pictures

Those who visited the Jim Flynn-Jack Johnson contest at Colma need not go to see the moving pictures of the Tommy Burns-Jack Johnson battle at Sydney, for the Canadian had about the same chance as Flynn had and besides that Johnson fought in about the same manner. Johnson held Tommy off in the clinches with the same ease and indifference that he did Flynn and he blocked all his infighting punches by binding his shoulders just as he did the Colorado fireman and the right uppercuts that have been told of are the same as the one that Johnson blackened the eye of the game Mr. Flynn with and finally put him away.

Johnson was too big, too clever, too cool and too hard a hitter for the Canuck and when the police stepped into the ring in the fourteenth round it was only when Tommy could not take another wallop and survive it, he was all in, down and out and the police simply put a stop to an uneven slaughter.

Tommy's declaration that the pictures would show that he could have continued and that perhaps he might have outgamed the big black, are all to the bad after watching the shadows, for he was badly outclassed from the start and in the last round was in a condition that would have made it dangerous to have continued.

Took Things Easy

The one fault that might be found with the battle that Johnson put up with Burns is that he was not aggressive enough and when he did try to do the leading he appeared slightly awkward. No doubt Johnson found it very inconvenient trying to land leads on a crouching man who was at least five inches shorter than himself and he satisfied his desire to win by waiting for the white man to rush, and to Burns' credit it must be said that he showed plenty of grit and tried at every chance to win. He was simply a fair little man being beaten up by a good big man, and that's the story.

There is little more to say about the pictures. They are good so far as moving pictures of a scrap are conserned and the side lights, such as the training camps and the crowd rushing to the arena and several other little novelties, are entertaining, but withal they are only pictures and we are too much used to the real thing to go very foolish over moving pictures.

The Golden Smile

For a long time there has been a rumore afloat that a story written about the Burns-Johnson contest by a famous novelist was a fake, and that the author had absolutely fallen down on the story and that a man in New York wrote the supposed story from the dispatches received from Australia.

That is perhaps the reason why the story was a day late in being published and was hardly such a masterpiece as one would expect from the supposed author.

At any rate the moving pictures won't bear out the assertion that the story was fixed up at home, for the golden smile that was so much written about fails to show in the pictures. Whether it is the fault of the camera or the absence of the smile it is hard to say, but the golden smile is absent, just the same.

Friday's Card

Next Friday night the North End Club will make its debut into the professional boxing game with a list of three contests with which it is hoped they will be able to please the fans. In the main event Lew Powell and Maurice Sayers are to go fifteen rounds, and as both men are fast and willing boxers the fans should see some fun even if the men should fall a trifle short on punching power.

Sayers showed by his contest with Murphy that he will be able to outbox Powell if the latter stays away from him and for that reason it will be up to the local fighter to make a whirlwind affair of it. Powell is lacking a little on the punch and is also a trifle wide with his swings, two things that will make it hard for him to win, but if he goes right at his work from the jump and keeps the pace up at a fast clip he may tire the none too strong Sayers out.

In short, the only chance Powell has of winning is to carry the fight to Sayers as fast as he can in an attempt to wear him down, and this will insure the fans a good run for their money.

Special Events

In the special event Harry Dell and Monte Attell will tangle and as an indication of the confidence that Dell possesses in his ability to beat the Hebrew he has agreed to allow Monte $400 of a $500 purse, win, lose or a draw. Dell is well known here and the fans who have seen him land his haymaker on several of the lads from whom he has gathered the long end of the purse feel that he has a very good chance with Monte.

In the preliminary Frankie Edwards will hook up with Tom Woods. The contests are to be of fifteen rounds each and make up a total of forty-five rounds altogether. The only contest that to me appears to have a chance of not going the limit is the Attell-Dell contest, so the fans will get plenty for their money in the matter of length of program.

McIntosh Persistant

One has to hand it to a persistent fellow like this man McIntosh from Australia, for he is going about the signing of the Johnson-Jeffries supposed match just as if he had the whole thing tucked away under his arm.

Yesterday he ran over to Chicago and signed Jack Johnson to fight for him for a $50,000 purse, the money to be split 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser, and then announced that he would no doubt have Jeffries in a few days.

We know that McIntosh's efforts are all wasted, for when we get ready to sign that contest the offer he has made will be a piker's bet alongside of the money we would make him give to take that battle out of this country. We glory in his spunk, however, and wish him well, but we never could stand for his taking that contest away from us if the match is to be made.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Sailor Burke and Jack (Twin) Sullivan will go ten rounds tonight before the Marathon Athletic club in Brooklyn. The winner of the contest has been promised a fight with Stanley Ketchel.

COLLEGIANS LOSE FAST GAME

Takes 12 Innings for Senators to Win From St. Mary's

Sacramento, 5; St. Mary's, 4.

Sacramentans saw one of the best games in years played yesterday between the Phoenix team of St. Mary's College and the Senators. Not until Wilcox dropped a high fly knocked by Doyle in the twelfth inning, allowing Shinn to score, did the Collegians lose their grip on the game by a 5 to 4 score. Up to that time it was nip and tuck with both aggregations putting up a gilt-edge article of ball. Runs were few and far between.

After the Senators got one man across the plate in the first game all was quiet in the run getting until the sixth, when, with one man on base, Wilcox punched out a curve that he straightened for a clean four-base sweep, putting St. Mary's ahead by one tally. Sacramento tied in the seventh. Both made a brace of runs in the tenth. Score:

CLASSY YOUNGSTERS TO LINE UP FOR COMING BELL STAKES

By LEE DEMIER.

Now that the Thornton Stakes has been run and won the next big attraction that will be decided by the New California Jockey Club will be the Bell Stakes, at four furlongs, with $2000 added money. There are 152 entries for the classic and a larger field than in the Gunst will line up at the barrier. In the race will be seen the cream of the two-year-old division now racing in the United States, and it is sure to attract a banner crowd to beautiful Williams Park next Saturday.

Thousands of racegoers are more than anxious to see whether Carroll, the winner of the Undine Stakes, is Gilbert Rose's master. Owner Oswald Bianchi is positive that his unbeaten youngster will run away from R. L. Thomas' colt in the Bell Stakes. Both champions are in that event, as is W. B. O. Macdonough's Sylvia Dunbar. There is still another of the juvenile class that will have more than a look-in, if he starts—Plunger McManus' Rocky O'Brien, which won the San Gabriel Stakes at Arcadia Saturday from a clever field of two-year-olds.

Winning Jockeys

To Jockey C. Ross falls the honor of piloting the greatest number of winners across the wire last week. He rode six. Next to him are Taplin, Deverich and Gross, with three each. The record of the riders was as follows:

C. Ross	6	Buxton	1
Taplin	4	J. Butler	1
Deverich	3	Kirschbaum	1
Gross	3	A. Walsh	1
Archibald	2	Scoville	1

Rocky O'Brien, the winner of the Gabriel Stakes at Arcadia Saturday, was originally named "Cockey" O'Brien, but the jockey club officials would not accept the name and Owner McManus changed it.

A number of prominent men came down from Sacramento to witness the running of the Thornton Stakes. Among them was Superior Judge Post.

FLASHED FROM NEW YORK—Cablegrams from England say that Jockey Eddie Dugan, the California rider, under contract to pilot Harry Payne Whitney's horses in England this season will not be granted a license by the English Jockey Club stewards. No reason has been given officially, but it is understood Dugan's reputation as a rough rider brought about the rejection of his application.

It is to be hoped that Messrs. Whitney and Belmont, to whom Jockey Dugan is to ride for in England, will see that the California boy and America's premier jockey will get his license.

The following boys have piloted less than four winning mounts during the season: F. H. King, Cotton, Lycurgus, Gargan, Glass, Sandy, Coburn and Gross, three each; Glasney, Holmes, Hogg and J. J. Hits Crack Off the Bat

If the Coast League clubs wish to retain the whole of their flock they better be on the sharp lookout. Already the wolf has spread terror in the San Francisco camp and carried two of the lambs to Santa Cruz. It is said that the midnight prowler is making its presence felt in other quarters and even the Commuters have not been entirely out of reach of the outlaw buccaneers. Tempting offers have been made to "Duffey" Lewis by Cy Moreing of the Oakland State League club and also by Manager Irwin of the San Francisco and "Brick" Devereaux of the Sand Crabs, the last of whom stole Oscar Jones and Curtis from the Seals. The consideration made to Lewis is much in excess of what he is getting at present, overbalancing his present salary, it is said, by $50 monthly. Lewis is a speedy outfielder. Many of the other members of the Oakland band, so the report is being circulated, have been urged to jump with the prospect of getting more mazumas.

Owing to the insistent demands made by the Hayward people to see the Chicagoans in action on their home grounds, Ed Walter of the Oakland Club and Tip O'Neil, representing Comiskey, have made arrangements whereby the game, which was scheduled for next Wednesday at Freeman's Park between the White Sox and the Commuters, will be transferred to Hayward. In order to allow everyone to witness the contest all the stores in Hayward will be closed from 2:30 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The game will commence promptly at 3 o'clock.

On Thursday the Oaks and Sox will come back to Oakland and play at Freeman's Park at 3:15; tomorrow the Stanford Varsity team crosses bats with the big brush men at Palo Alto.

The California State League opens next Wednesday afternoon at their new grounds at Fifty-seventh and Grove streets, preceded by a parade, in which the Mayor and other civic officials will participate. The city chief executive will also throw the first ball over the plate. The teams, which will line up against each other, are Cy Moreing's crowd and Charley Irwin's warriors from across the bay.

Van Buren, one of the crack outfielders on last year's Aberdeen team in the Northwest League, has been signed by "Brick" Devereaux of Santa Cruz. The Sand Crabs and Elmer Stricklett's aggregation will start the ball rolling Wednesday in San Jose.

It is said that Henry Berry, manager of the Los Angeles Coast League team, and "Happy" Hogan are at outs. The trouble seems to have arisen over the fact that "Happy" thinks Berry is getting the best of it in the White Sox series.

Thomas E. Kerry, coach of the Santa Clara college varsity baseball team, was the guest of honor at an entertainment in the college theater last night. Kelly leaves for Oregon today to take over the baseball affairs of the University of Oregon. Kelly has, beyond a doubt, developed the present Santa Clara nine into one of the best baseball aggregations the Catholic institution has ever put forth.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Ma. Maloney will be a starter in the $10,000 Marathon derby to be run at the Polo grounds on April 3. Tom Longboat, Alfred Shrubb, Dorando Pietri, Henri St. Yves and Johnny Hayes, previously signified their intentions to start.

Indies' Lose to Hornets

Hornets 4, Independents 0.

Rain has no terrors for soccer players and yesterday afternoon at Alameda the Hornets and the Independents fought each other through two exciting halves, and when the rain had cleared away the Hornets had completely hunduted the Indies under a 4 to 0 score. Elliot was the particular star for the Hornets, putting up a rattling good game.

Anderson, Gore and Bernard, three of the selected soccer players for the "All-California" team, have notified the association committee that they will be unable to make the northern trip. A special emergency meeting was held last night to fill the places vacated, and Dewar (Building Trades), Smith (Thistles) and Harris (Burns) were chosen.

The cross-country run was made to make selections for the Marathon relay contest to be held at Stockton April 3d under the auspices of the Athletic Association of the Slough City.

Viera was presented with a cup upon his return to the St. Mary's institution, offered by the college athletic body for first place.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 22.—Initial prices of stocks showed some good gains today over Saturday's level in the active speculative issues and the whole list was moderately higher. The amount of business done, however, was small. Union Pacific rose 1¼, People's Gas 1⅝, Reading, Great Northern preferred, Central Pacific and American Smelting 1, and Northern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper 3. Buying orders increased largely and there was a further sharp advance in which the important railroads showed the largest share. The market quieted down considerably after many material gains had been made. Buying orders for London accounts were a factor in the activity and strength of the first hour. When these orders had been executed the market became extremely dull again and prices sagged a fraction.

Bonds were steady.

Heavy buying of Reading enlivened things up a bit for a time, but the market soon returned to its apathetic state when Reading stopped advancing. The rise carried Reading up 2⅝, Canadian Pacific 1½, American Sugar 1.

The undertone of the market remained strong and there was a further advance in select stocks. Union Pacific moved up 2¼, American Smelting 2, New York Central and Missouri Pacific 1¾, and Atchison, Rio Grande and Great Northern Ore Certificates 1.

The market closed strong and quite active. The copper and lead industrials led the late advance, in which American Smelting and Reading rose 3¼, Chicago and Alton 2¼, Amalgamated Copper 2⅝, Northwestern 2, New York Central 1¾ and National Lead and Tennessee Copper 1¼.

Bierwith of Oakland Wins Roller Marathon

The first roller Marathon held at the Coliseum last Saturday night proved a very exciting contest.

Twenty-eight of the best skaters of the Pacific Coast toed the mark, fifteen completing the entire distance of 26 miles and 385 yards. The phenomenal fast time of one hour, twenty-eight minutes and thirty seconds was made, an average of less than three and one-half minutes to the mile.

The winner was Lester Bierwirth of Oakland, George Peterson of Oakland, second, John Stoddard of the Coliseum, San Francisco, third, and Charles Friedel of Oakland, fourth.

Owing to the great success of the first Marathon, the management of the Coliseum is planning another race to take place in the near future.

James Steen, president of the Good Government League of Monmouth county, N. J., who was chiefly responsible for the closing of the Monmouth Park racetrack in 1893 and the prohibition of racing and gambling in New Jersey, died the other day of pneumonia, at his home in Eatontown, N. J.

Jockey W. McIntyre did not arrive at Arcadia in time Saturday to ride Carroll in the stake, and Jockey Musgrave was given the mount.

Jockey Crist Kirschbaum has suffered enough. Give him a chance to accept outside mounts.

The total distance covered was 2,425 miles, 312 less than MacFarland and Moran made when they won their six-day race in New York in 1908.

WHEAT MARKET

SAN FRANCISCO WHEAT.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—Wheat—Steady; no trading. Cash, $1.40@1.65.

Barley Strong. May $1.43 bid, $1.48½ asked, December, $1.21½@1.25½; cash, $1.47½@1.50.

Corn—Firm. Large yellow, $1.67½@1.72½.

PORTLAND, March 22. Wheat, track prices, Club, $1.08, bluestem, $1.20; turkey red, $1.10; red Russian, $1.01, valley, $1.10.

CHICAGO, March 22. Lower cables, liberal world's shipments and favorable reports regarding the growing crop in this country brought out considerable selling of wheat here today, which resulted in declines of nearly 1c. At the start prices were ⅜c to ⅝@¾c lower, May being at $1.14⅝@1.14¾ and July at $1.02⅝. After touching $1.14⅞, May declined to $1.14½, while July sold off to $1.02¼.

The low point for May was reached at $1.14¼. July declined to $1.01⅞. Late in the day several of the leading bulls began to buy and this started active covering by shorts, resulting in a sharp rally, all of the earlier loss being regained. May advanced to $1.15¾ and July to $1.02⅞. The close was firm, although May was still a shade below Saturday's close at $1.15¼. July was ⅛@¼c lower at $1.02⅝@1.02⅞.

The slump in the wheat market, weak cables and fairly liberal receipts had a depressing effect on corn. May opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@⅝c lower at 65½@65⅝c, sold at 65⅜c and then declined again to 65⅛c.

The market rallied with wheat, May advancing to 66⅛c.

The market for oats was rather weak because of the buying of wheat and corn. May opened ¾c lower at 53⅞c, sold at 53⅞c and then ran off to 54⅜@53⅞c.

The closing quotations were as follows:

Wheat May, $1.15¾; July, $1.02⅝@1.02⅞; September, 96⅝@96⅞c December, 97⅛c.

WANTS CONGRESS TO REBUKE CZAR

Representative Introduces Resolution Deploring Massacres in Russia

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Representative Bennett of New York has introduced a resolution deploring the acts of violence and inhumanity, which, it is said, are committed in Russia, claiming such acts to be shocking to the civilized world and retarding to universal progress.

In the long preamble which precedes the resolution, the United States recognizes the friendly feeling between the people and the government of this country, and those of Russia, and acknowledges the services of the Czar in summoning The Hague peace conference.

Massacres Planned

Further, it is set forth that Congress has received a petition signed by well-known American citizens in which, on authority of official representatives of the Russian government, it is claimed that men, women and children — practically non-combatants — are maimed and killed, torture applied to prisoners in the prisons and fortresses to obtain information, and massacres are planned and carried out by the military and police for the purpose of terrorizing the population. It is further set forth that large numbers of "widowed, orphaned and impoverished survivors of these massacres have come to this country many times without natural supporters and in great destitution."

26 MEN SAIL IN GREAT AIRSHIP

Zeppelin Breaks All Records For Weight-Carrying Cruise in Air

BERLIN, March 22.—Soaring like a mighty bird, Count Zeppelin's dirigible airship, the largest in the world, yesterday created a world's record for weight-carrying in cruising the sky.

The huge dirigible ascended from its quarters at Lake Constance, bearing Count Zeppelin, with ten aeronauts of the German army and fifteen soldiers. Never before in the brief history of aeronautics has an airship made a successful flight with a crew of twenty-six persons. A great throng witnessed the ascent. The airship rose as majestically as an eagle. Its flight covered 150 miles and the dirigible was in the air four hours.

As a result of the trip the Kaiser will in all probability ask a large appropriation from the Reichstag to build an aerial navy which will surpass all others in existence.

FORMER U. S. MARSHAL DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Joshua Littlefield, a former deputy United States marshal and a pioneer of Oakland, died suddenly Saturday evening in him home, 258 East Seventeenth street, of heart disease.

The deceased was born in Kennebunk, Maine, in 1836, and came to California about fifty years ago. He served as a deputy under United States Marshal Baldwin for two terms. For the last ten years he has led a quiet life.

He is survived by a widow and three daughters, Mrs. Frank H. Stewart of Oakland, Mrs. H. B. Crego of Red Bluff and Mrs. Amador Andrews of Boston. The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the family residence. Interment will be private.

THEATRICAL MANAGER SERIOUSLY INJURED

NEW YORK, March 22.—John J. Shea, manager of the Bijou Theatrical Booking Agency, is in a serious condition today after having been in a carriage smash-up in Central Park. He was in a runabout, with his brother, Morris A. Shea, who was injured, but not severely. J. J. Shea had five ribs broken besides being otherwise injured.

ROLLER SKATES REPLACE OLD WHISKY "SKATES"

WAUSAU, Wis., March 22.—According to Chief of Police Thomas Malone the roller skating craze which overtook the city last fall has developed into an effective antidote to intemperance. Its attracting power is decidedly stronger for young men than saloons, hence a large majority of the youths who used to frequent barrooms before the sport came into vogue can now be found at the rinks.

"A Sexton's Dream" Is Marvel of Beauty at the Bell Theater

Scene
in the
"Sexton's Dream"
Playing
at the Bell Theater
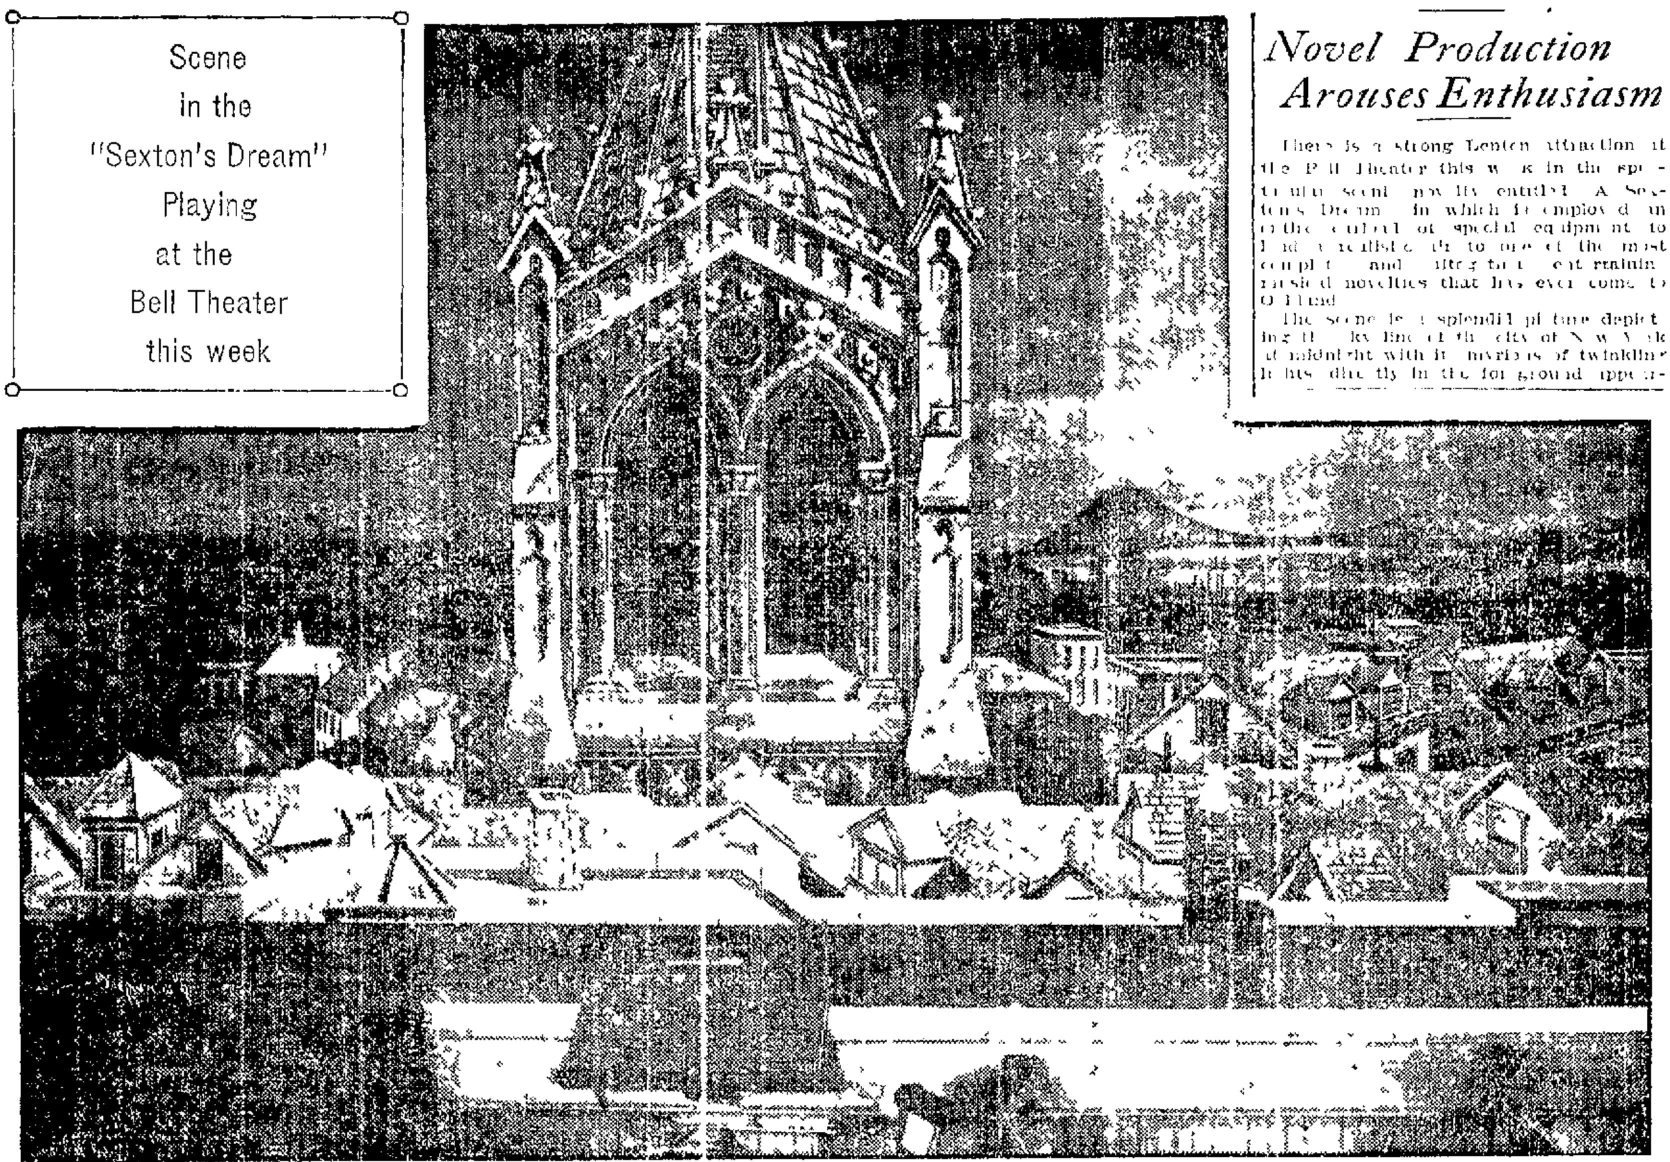
this week



Novel Production Arouses Enthusiasm

There is a strong Lenten attraction at the Bell Theater this week in the spectacular scenic novelty entitled "A Sexton's Dream," in which is employed an [illegible] of special equipment to lend a realistic air to one of the most complete and [illegible] musical novelties that has ever come to Oakland.

The scene is a splendid picture depicting the sky line of the city of New York at midnight with its myriads of twinkling lights, directly in the foreground appearing the picture, the tower of famous Trinity Church. As the curtain rises on this midnight picture the grizzled old sexton of Trinity is seen climbing the tower into the belfry to ring out the glad chimes for the coming day. Broken and bent with age, his silvery hair sweeping his shoulders, the old fellow sits and dreams, and in his dreams he is again possessed of the beautiful voice he so fondly cherished as a youth.

Beautiful Scene

The mellow tones of the great organ lend a realistic touch and in rapturous [illegible] the old bell ringer swells into song. A pretty sight is the return of the snow white doves to their nest in the belfry, the only companions of the aged man. He [illegible] and talks to them as the curtain falls and hides the scene from view. The production is complete in every detail and one worthy the highest commendation. The voice of the old sexton is of surpassing sweetness and the various [illegible] numbers he renders are greatly [illegible] and gain [illegible] rapturous applause.

On [illegible] an Arab maid is a sensation. She [illegible] quick and graceful danseuse, Orientally costumed, who performs the [illegible] Dervish whirlwind dance on her toe to the accompaniment of many brilliantly illuminated [illegible]. Added to this she does the most wonderful backward [illegible] to and [illegible] from the [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] contortionist she is a marvel and she does her act in a whirlwind [illegible] dance holding one illuminated [illegible] in each hand and a third in her teeth and a blaze of light upon her.

Race Track Comedy

Then there is a slang classic that goes well. Frank Payne and Miss [illegible] Nelson and Company are clever in "Dr. [illegible]," a story of the race track which tells how the winning of a certain race brought happiness to one and misery to another. Wm. Thompson as Muggins, the butler, introduces some good comedy, but special mention should be made of Frank Mayne's clever interpretation of the smooth but illiterate race track follower. In the title role Tom Brantford, the Human Band, is a whole circus in himself. He runs the gamut of imitation from full brass band to a [illegible]. He is one who takes well, makes you laugh and then you wonder what [illegible] after it was all over. Another excellent number is Mons. J. W. Vallo, one of the greatest accordionists on the stage. It is a decidedly unusual offering and certainly made good with the big crowds of Sunday. Mons. Vallo's repertoire includes everything from rag-time to grand opera and it was with difficulty that the appreciative auditors would allow the next following to appear, so insistent were they with recalls for the accordion player.

The [illegible] acrobats scored an instant hit in their novelty [illegible] and the [illegible] sketch "It Happened in Dogville" [illegible] clever little actors [illegible] in a laugh all the way through. Twenty or more bright little dogs of various [illegible] act this little skit in pantomime and their efforts are ludicrous in the extreme. For the Belscope this week attention should be called to the excellent motion picture of "Winter Sport in Canada" and "The Harvesting of the Ice Crop in Montreal."

WHITE PLAGUE TO DISAPPEAR

Noted Doctor Says Consumption Will be Wiped Out in 30 Years

LONDON, March 22.—Dr. Latham, a noted physician, gives the "white plague" a life of thirty or forty years, at the end of which time he says tuberculosis will have disappeared as completely in civilized countries as have leprosy and cholera.

How medical science has suppressed many deadly diseases is related in connection with this prediction of the end of consumption. Smallpox is the most striking example.

Dr. Latham, who made this surprising statement, is one of the most noted physicians of this day. He is physician and lecturer on medicine at St. George's Hospital, London, assistant physician at the Brompton Hospital for Consumption and Diseases of the Chest, general physician of the York Road Hospital and physician of the Royal Society of Musicians of Great Britain.

TO SAIL HIGHER THAN ANY MAN

Scientist in Balloon to Obtain Data of Upper Air Strata

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 22.—In an endeavor to attain an altitude greater than ever reached before by man, Professor David Todd of Amherst College and Leon Stevens, the aeronaut, will make a balloon ascension here in the near future.

The ascension will be made for the purpose of special experiments and to obtain data concerning the upper strata of air. Details of the proposed flight have not been made public, but it is known that a monster balloon will be used, equipped with a steel frame or cage. Because of the danger of the bag bursting in such a rarified atmosphere that the aeronauts hope to reach, the balloon will be only one-half or two-thirds inflated. The special equipment will be taken along to protect scientists in the extreme cold far above the earth. Professor Todd is director of the Amherst Observatory and an authority on astronomical science.

GREATEST BOOM MARKET COUNTRY HAS EVER KNOWN

J. C. Wilson Sees Wave of Prosperity

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—"I think we are going to see the greatest boom market the country has ever known," said J. C. Wilson, the energetic stock broker, on his return from a hasty trip to New York and Chicago.

There was just one "but" at the end of his boosting declaration, and that was merely the but of postponement. The boom market is not to come just yet—but soon.

"There is any quantity of money in New York," he went on. "The banks are bulging with it. But there is no likelihood of anything like a lively stock market until after Congress has finished with the tariff and the big financiers have secured a further line on the policy of President Taft. Then, when all the cards are on the table, you will see things hum as they never hummed before.

To Declare Dividends

"It is expected that a number of railroads will begin declaring dividends as soon as they are sure of the lay of the land. They don't dare do so until they know just how Congress and the President are to act. These dividends will start things moving.

"Then it is generally understood that the big plants are not only getting ready to start up on full capacity, but they expect to enlarge and employ more men than ever. I heard a great deal of this talk of enlargement as soon as the tariff is fixed and capital can invest with its eyes open.

"I think all this talk of a fight in steel is 'bunco.' It is said that some of the independent concerns can manufacture steel cheaper than the trust. But the wise opinion among the financiers is that when the tariff is fixed there will be a coming together of all the steel interests. I talked with Mr. Gates on the subject and he seemed entirely sure of the trust's position not only at the present but for a hundred years to come.

Fair to Capital

"As for President Taft, all that is asked of him is that he shall be fair to capital. It is felt that he will be so. All his expressions are of that tone. So after all these years of hammering and hostility capital looks forward to a season of peace.

"So a great prosperity is predicted for the future, and as I said, the greatest boom market the country has ever known is surely on the way."

ASSEMBLYMAN WYATT IS DEAD

Illness Kept Legislator From His Desk During Entire Session

SACRAMENTO, March 22.—Members of the Assembly learned with deep regret of the death at Salinas of their comrade from Monterey county, John Jay Wyatt. His chair in the Assembly chamber has been vacant the entire session, the while the one missing member was lying at the point of death in a hospital.

Wyatt was generally regarded as one of the ablest and best legislators ever sent up to Sacramento by a political constituency. Robert Beardslee of Stockton, speaker of the last Assembly, referred to him last evening as a lawyer of exceptional reading and intelligence.

The late legislator was born at Yuba City, Sutter county, January 28, 1868. He received his early education in the common schools of California and later took a partial course in the University of Denver, Colo. He was admitted to the practice of law in 1890 and was city attorney of Salinas in almost continuous service from th[illegible] to the day of his death. A Republican in politics, he was elected to the Assembly from the Fifty-ninth district in November, 1906, and re-elected last November.

UNCLE SAM BORROWS FOR PHILIPPINE EXHIBIT

NEW YORK, March 22.—Uncle Sam has been forced to borrow material to furnish the Philippine exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon Exposition, which will open in June. Being rather short of time and material, the War Department has called on the authorities of the American Museum of Natural History in New York to come to the rescue. The museum has the most complete Philippine exhibit in this country and a quantity of interesting treasures will be shipped in about ten days.

WOMEN OF BOSTON OPEN WAR ON RATS

BOSTON, March 22.—Boston is to have a crusade against rats similar to the one conducted in San Francisco. Several well known women have become interested in the proposal, among them Mrs. T. J. Bowlker, a sister of the president-elect of Harvard. The fight against the rats is to be carried on in order to make the city healthful.

BEWARE OF THE BACKACHE NOW

This Simple Home Mixture Is Said to Relieve Lame Back and Urinary Troubles

More people succumb each year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good first-class physician.

There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home, is stated by a well-known authority. For some of these, such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency (especially at night), painful scalding and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple ingredients are harmless and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy, and anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is no more effective remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism, because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It cleans the clogged up pores in the kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood the poisonous uric acid and waste matter which, if not eliminated, remain in the blood, decompose and settle about the joints and muscular tissues, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care of your kidneys" is now the physician's advice to his patients.

WOE! DOUGHNUT JOE GONE! ALAS!

Lifeless Hangs His Frying Pan and Pork Sausages Weep Tears of Grease

SAN LEANDRO, March 22.—No more may the sizzling smell of ham sizzling in the frying pan tempt the hungry citizen on Estudillo avenue, the most exclusive residence street of San Leandro, for "Doughnut Joe," known everywhere for his excellent sausages and coffee, to say nothing of his waffles and beans, has been ejected with his lunch wagon from the classic street by Marshal Gelsehofer. That frying pan in which Joe was wont to prepare dishes calculated to attract the olfactory nerve of the famished has now been relegated to its nail in the back of the stove and is cold and lifeless.

Alas and Woe!

And those sausages! Alas those pork sausages! Where are they? Like the snows of yesterday, they have melted in their grease and are no more.

Joe was too good a cook to endure long, and it was the superior excellence of his pastry and cooking that led to his downfall. The other keepers of restaurants in the vicinity became frantic when the breeze wafted the odor from Joe's lunch wagon. They resented the intrusion of the outsider and got up a petition which they presented to the Town Trustees and "Joe, the Doughnut Man," hitched his old white horse to his wheeled dining room and departed.

But he threatens to come back and establish himself on some other street where he will not be bothered by jealous rivals, and this is welcome news to many a man who longs for the pies mother used to make.

BURGLARS ORGANIZE AND DIVIDE UP CITY

CHICAGO, March 22.—Proof of a working agreement between gangs of burglars has been discovered by the police. After raiding one house and making five arrests, officers went to another district and captured another group. Property stolen by the first gang was found in the possession of the second and later developments showed that an agreement existed between the crooks whereby the territory of each other was respected.

Locke was recently offered the position of city attorney of Richmond, Contra Costa county. Although the salary was tempting, the condition that he make his residence there caused him to decline the offer. Locke explained that he couldn't think of leaving San Leandro, where he has lived all his life.
